Berlin-Moscow Split Hinted

SOVIET MASSES MORE SOLDIERS NEAR RUMANIA

Reds Deny They Were Fully Informed of German Plans in Balkans.

By The Associated Press

A sharp split in Berlin-Moscow "mutual information" contact was indicated today as Russia sped the massing of Red army troops on the frontier of Rumania, now overrun with German soldiers.

Without confirmation elsewhere, Reuters (British news agency) said in a dispatch from Bucharest that Soviet troops already have advanced into the Danube delta of Rumania.

If true, Russia would appear to be challenging Germany's self-elected guardianship of Rumania.

The Soviet government, through its official news agency, disclosed that it had not received what it regarded as satisfactory advance notice of Germany's plan to send troops into the rich Balkan oil kingdom in southeast Europe.

The news agency, Tass, officially denied a report published in a newspaper in German-controlled Denmark that "the Soviet government was timely informed that German troops would be sent into Rumania and that the Kremlin was informed of the aims and numbers of troops sent to Rumania."

First Evidence Of Split

This was the first open intimation of a possible schism between Germany and Russia, although foreign observers long have said that ultimately their professed friendship would dissolve and they would fight the "real battle of Europe."

The Soviet government's statement was in direct contrast to an assertion by informed Berlin spokesmen, who declared on Oct. 10 that powers friendly to the Rome-Berlin axis had been notified German troops had arrived in Rumania and that others were to follow.

Russia's belated disclosure was all the more surprising in view of the Kremlin's extreme reticence on matters concerning Soviet-German relations.

Meanwhile, Nazi daylight raiders roaring across the English channel in waves at 5-minute intervals attempted to storm London six times up to early afternoon.

Each time, the British said, they were driven off.

Rescue workers still searched for the living and dead entombed in great heaps of rubble after the worst night raids of the war.

Attack Lasts 7 Hours

While bombs rained down in a 7-hour night assault, setting spectacular fires in many sections of the capital, one rescue crew found 40 to 50 persons still alive in a basement shelter under a block of flats shattered by bombs Sunday night and Monday morning. Uncounted others were killed.

Nazi airmen reported "shooting flames" were visible from Hyde park, in the heart of London, to the India docks in the slum-infested East end.

Metropolitan newspapers carried these typical headlines:

"London's Worst Terror Raid."

"Fiercest Night Raid of the War."

Firemen had scarcely brought a network of fires under control before the Germans, dropping a new type of combination fire-and-explosive bomb, renewed the attack in successive waves.

The intensified daylight assault was apparently Adolf Hitler's an-

250 From Marion Civic Groups Join In Welcome To New Industrial Heads

One of Largest Assemblies of Community Leaders in Years Greets Officials of Huber Co. and Universal Cooler Corporation.

An assembly of approximately 250 Marion men representing industry, business and the professions, yesterday welcomed officials of the Universal Cooler Corporation, the latest addition to the city's list of industries, and new officials of the Huber Manufacturing Co.

In several respects the gathering, which took place at Hotel Harding following a luncheon was hailed as one of the most notable and significant in the city's history. It was one of the largest meetings of its kind ever held in Marion, one of the most enthusiastic, and one regarded by all who attended as an indication that the community is on the way to new economic expansion and progress.

Making up the major portion of the assemblage were members of the Chamber of Commerce, and Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Cooperative clubs. In addition there were guests outside these organizations from Marion and other cities representing various lines of business. The one meeting substituted for the separate sessions held weekly by the several service clubs, all having arranged to unite for this expression of community welcome to the new industrial heads.

The concluding feature of the program, following introduction of the new industrial officials, was an address by Dr. Charles Copeland Smith, Chicago writer, lecturer and radio commentator, who spoke on the theme "Freedom," emphasizing the need of restoring American initiative to its former place beyond government interference in order to get the nation on a sound economic basis and give workers productive employment.

Harold J. Grigsby, president of the Chamber of Commerce, the organization which successfully negotiated for bringing the Universal Cooler Corp. to Marion, presided throughout the program.

List of Introductions

First introduced among the industrial officials was E. M. Griffith, president and general manager of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co., another comparatively new Marion industry which is now launched upon a substantial operating schedule.

E. J. Schroeter, heading the new organization of the Huber Manufacturing Co. as president and general manager, was next presented and he in turn introduced R. P. White, plant manager, Richard A. Wheeler, general sales manager, Floyd Kemmis, chief inspector and service manager, George Sawyer, methods engineer, J. N. Hamilton, comptroller, A. L. Raitch, pro-

GUARDSMEN 'IN THE ARMY NOW'

Marion Units Join in Nation-wide Mobilization; To Live at Armory.

Marion's Co. D and Headquarters Detachment of the 166th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, became members of the regular U. S. army at 12:01 a. m. today as guardsmen throughout the nation mobilized.

More than 10,000 guardsmen in Ohio were affected by the "M" day orders.

A tentative day of Thursday, Oct. 24, which local officers believe will be confirmed shortly has been set for the Marion units to leave for training at Camp Shelby, Miss.

The mobilization in Marion was done with precision and no fanfare.

Guardsmen were ordered to be at the Armory at 7. With one exception—he overslept and had to be routed from bed by a lieutenant—the 89 men and four officers of Co. D and the 13 men and two officers of Headquarters Detachment reported for duty between 7 and 7:30.

Four More Enlist

Before 9:30 this morning four men went to the Armory and enlisted for service with Co. D. They are John Eichelberger of 419 West Church street, Gilbert Saunders of 327 Silver street, Benjamin Green of near Prospect and Homer Bailey of near DeGraff.

From now until they entrain for Mississippi the Armory will be "home" for the men. They will live there, have all meals in the Armory mess hall, and will sleep there.

However, each night 25 per cent of the men will be given permission to spend the night at home. This privilege will be rotated among the non-commissioned officers, officers and privates.

Tomorrow men of both units will go to Mansfield for the rigid physical examination the U. S. army requires of each of its members.

Headquarters Detachment will leave the Armory at 8 a. m. and Co. D men will leave at 9. They expect to be back in Marion about 4:30 in the afternoon.

There will be no dull moments in life at the Armory, according to the program outlined this morning by Capt. H. L. Taylor of Co. D, when asked what the men will do until they leave for Mississippi.

This morning the men were cleaning up the supply room which has been in more or less cluttered state since the men returned from training at Warrens, Wis. Uniforms were being issued to those men not yet supplied.

Starting Thursday the men will go through a daily eight-hour drilling program. The drills will include the school of soldiering, close order drill and basic machine gun training.

Until the men get to Mississippi their equipment, including uniforms, will be somewhat "hit-or-miss," Captain Taylor said. The regular U. S. army equipment will be issued at Camp Shelby.

"I'll say we're in the army now," he said with a laugh this morning.

Legislation On Gambling To Go Before Council

Legislation designed to curb organized gambling in Marion will be presented when city council meets Oct. 28, it was announced last night after a representative of the Marion County Ministerial association inquired of the councilman concerning the fate of the association's request for such action.

Harry Wilhelm, chairman of council's police committee, said his group had been working with the association on the legislation since the ministers appeared before council several months ago to ask that organized gambling be checked.

In Committee's Hands

The legislation is now in the hands of the committee and will be presented at council's next meeting.

This was brought out at council's session last night after Rev. John R. Himes, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical church, made inquiry.

Rev. Himes reminded council that the association's representatives had requested action against gambling, which he declared is being "quite openly in violation of state laws."

The association's representatives later met with the council police committee and apparently progress was being made, he said.

"We have no desire to make unreasonable demands," he said. "Or even demands. Still we come as citizens intensely interested in the moral detriment to the people of the community, especially the young people."

A "Reminder"

He said that the association is "disappointed that the matter has been permitted to lag" and that he appeared more as a "reminder" than anything else.

Rev. Himes said he understands an ordinance has been drafted and wondered if it were "dead in committee."

At this point Mr. Wilhelm said he promised the legislation would be reported to council at the next meeting.

Mr. Wilhelm later said he could not say at this time whether the legislation would bear the recommendation of the police committee when it is reported to council.

REGISTRATION PLANS ALL SET FOR TOMORROW

Preparations Made for Signing Marion Co. Men for Draft from 7 A. M. to 9 P. M.

Marion county's young men from all walks of life will lay down their work for a few minutes tomorrow and place themselves at the call of their country for military duty.

Between 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. an estimated 6,740 men between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive, will converge on their usual voting places to register for the nation's first peacetime military draft.

The machinery in Marion county is "ready to go," election officials telegraphed Adjutant General Gilson D. Light, head of the draft in Ohio, after he inquired yesterday concerning preparations here.

All of the 57 registration precincts in the county received their final instructions and complete supplies last night at a meeting held by the board of elections at the common pleas courtroom.

Over 300 Present

C. G. Ritzler, deputy clerk of the board, presided over the 330 or 340 who attended. Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young administered the formal oaths to the registrars. Those not present last night will be sworn in tomorrow morning.

Registration will not take long for the average man—about 20 minutes. Each man will be asked 11 questions. The 11 questions were published in The Star and are available here for any one wishing them. They will also be posted prominently on placards in each registration place and registrants are advised to get their answers in order before going to the desk of the registrar.

The estimated 6,740 Marion county men who will register are among 16,404,000 in the entire country.

Their registration is the first step in setting up the draft. When registration day is over, precinct registrars will seal all the registration cards in envelopes and return them to the county election board. At the election board, the cards will be segregated on the basis of the three draft districts in the county—Wards 1, 2 and 3; Wards 4, 5 and 6, and the remaining rural areas of the county.

Procedure Outlined

The total registration for each district will be compiled and telegraphed immediately to the state selective service board.

Thursday, the election board is to deliver to the three draft boards all the registration cards for each draft district.

Later, at the office of each draft board, lists of registrants will be posted and copies will be sent to newspapers.

Every man who registers tomorrow will be given a registration certificate and a booklet of information. Young men are advised to make sure they receive a certificate, since this shows that they actually did register. Lack of one may prove to be embarrassing.

The estimate of 20 minutes for the average registration is upheld by Major Daniel E. Gould of the national headquarters field office, who said five or six minutes

Community Fund Campaign Booked for Oct. 23 to 28

Marion's 1940 Community Fund campaign will be held Oct. 23-28, J. E. Oliphant, president of the Marion Community Foundation, Inc., announced today as plans for the annual drive gathered momentum.

The quota will be announced after a meeting of the budget committee tonight at 7:30 at Hotel Harding. The committee will go over the budgets of the five participating welfare and youth organizations and decide upon a figure to cover their needs for the coming year.

This year as in the last two years, the beneficiaries of the campaign will be the Salvation Army, Boy and Girl Scouts, Girl Reserves and the Y.M.C.A. Last year the campaign raised more than $30,000, sending the fund over the top, the leaders see no reason why the same thing cannot be accomplished this year.

First Steps Taken

Groundwork for the campaign has already been laid out, with leaders of various divisions appointed and busy securing their own captains and workers. Initial meetings of the divisions are now being planned.

Mr. Oliphant again will serve as general chairman; Elmer J. Schoenlaub and James C. Woods, chairmen of the initial gifts division; Harold J. Grigsby and Carl E. Danner, chairmen of the industrial division; Homer Waddell, A. W. Kette and J. D. Torrance, chairmen of the commercial and professional division; Mrs. E. O. Smith, chairman, and Mrs. George Albers and Mrs. Frederick Myers, vice chairmen, of the women's division; Supt. E. E. Holt, chair*man of the schools division*; R. E. White, chairman of the public employes division.

Sessions Scheduled

All these groups will hold preliminary meetings this week to get all advance work started so that the campaign can be launched

KENTON POLICE NAB SLAYER

Chase Ends Flight of Fostoria Youth Accused of Killing Mother.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Oct. 15—Captured here after a thrilling and dangerous automobile ride through downtown Kenton in which three cars were damaged but no one injured, 23-year-old Dalton Stockdale of Fostoria today was returned to his home city to face murder charges in the slaying of his mother, Mrs. Frank Stockdale.

Patrolmen E. A. Richard and Howard Hyte of Fostoria came after the suspect last evening, identified him as Stockdale despite his protestations that he was in reality Edgar Krile (native of Oklahoma but without a residence at this time) and returned him to Fostoria while the stocky youth called upon "God," and "Governor Bricker of the sovereign state of Ohio" to witness to the truth of his statement that he was in reality Krile and not Stockdale.

Arrested by Police Chief R. R. Clark and Assistant Chief A. D. Rizer after a 70-mile-an-hour ride through Kenton and congested traffic at 4:18 p. m. Monday, Stockdale was yanked bodily from his overturned car by the two who earlier had received a radio message from Findlay that Stockdale was headed toward Kenton in a 1934 model car.

Pick Up Trail

Rizer and Clark picked up the trail just north of Kenton, and Rizer fired three shots into the air as the suspect neared Kenton on the reckless ride. When that failed, Rizer drove the police cruiser alongside and Clark ordered him to the curb. Through a red light in downtown Kenton they flashed but Stockdale lost control of his car weaving through traffic. It crashed into the double-parked car of Jesse Nichols of Alger, turned it around and overturned in the street.

The Nichols car ploughed into another parked car belonging to Charles C. Appleman of Kenton, damaging it to the extent of $100.

The crowd was menaced by spraying gasoline from the Stockdale automobile until firemen wetted the street down with water to allay the fumes.

Police said that Stockdale escaped with a minor cut on his chin and that he steadfastly denied his identity, claiming to be a native of Oklahoma and to be in reality "Edgar Krile."

A murder warrant presented here charged the youth with killing his mother. Another charge against him was the shooting of a

Councilmen Opposed To Immediate Installation of More Parking Meters

Police Committee's Recommendation for 60 More Starts Discussion; New Hospital Job Created.

Marion is not likely to buy any more parking meters — not just now.

This became clear last night when several city councilmen, prior to council's regular meeting at city hall, declared opposition to installing additional devices until the present 103 have been in for a longer period.

Just how long is uncertain. One councilman said he didn't want any more until these are paid for, which would be next year sometime. Others merely mentioned their belief that the present machines should have a longer trial, as originally planned by council.

The matter came up when the police committee submitted a report, calling for installation [illegible] one-hour meters [illegible] from [illegible] chard on the south side. This would require 60 or 65 more meters.

Willkie Charges Production of Armaments Lags

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN ENROUTE TO BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 15—Wendell L. Willkie renewed his criticism of defense production today by declaring that a "startling and disturbing" delay exists in housing the expanded army.

"There must always be some delay in procuring a range finder or an electric firing mechanism," he said in a speech prepared for a late morning rally at Rochester, N. Y.

"There should be no delay in procuring a board and a hammer and some nails. This can only be attributed to pitiful inefficiency."

The Republican presidential nominee continued his campaign trip westward across New York after telling a wind-swept audience at Syracuse last night that "The pattern of dictatorship" has been demonstrated in various New Deal acts.

Dictatorship, he said, always has come through "the usurpation of power by manufactured emergencies, the circumvention of the legislature, the capture of the courts."

On Wrong Road

"That's the road we are on," he added, extemporaneously, "and I'm in favor of getting off that road. Aren't you?"

Many in the outdoor crowd, wrapped in coats and blankets, shouted agreement, and applauded again when Willkie said that the dictatorship pattern "calls for the indefinite rule of an indispensable man."

Willkie listed reasons why he objected to President Roosevelt's reelection. Among other things, he criticized New Deal spending and an increase in government bureaus, and charged that political preference had displaced civil service as a test for federal jobs.

"These are precisely the things that make the third term candidate indispensable," Willkie said, adding quickly:

"These are the things that make him indispensable to the little clique of power-hungry men who hide behind his smiling mask. A third term will give them the opportunity they seek to fasten their grasp irrevocably upon the country."

Willkie declared that the Democratic party had been "kidnaped" by the New Deal.

Principles Abandoned

"It is not the party of Jefferson and Jackson and Woodrow Wilson that has abandoned the principles," he said. "It is the New Deal of Hopkins, Ickes, Corcoran, Cohen and Wallace, which has captured the Democratic party. They seek to substitute for Democratic doctrine the doctrine of the indispensable man."

Willkie charged the New Deal *is following "the pattern of dic*tatorship." He argued that his contention was demonstrated by "usurpation of power by manu*factured emergencies*, the circumvention of the legislature, the capture of the courts."

"The pattern," he added, "calls for the creation of one dominant party in which all power is vested."

Willkie declared in a prepared speech that President Roosevelt "is indispensable only to the little clique of power-hungry men who hide behind his smiling mask."

"A third term," he asserted,

4 ADDED TO COUNTY CORN CONTEST LIST

Final Entries Made in Annual Husking Event.

Four new entries, two in the standing corn division and two in the senior shock competition were submitted last night prior to the deadline for filing entries in the county corn husking contests, County Agent Homer S. Porteus reported today.

Stanley Neiderhauser and Russell Berridge, both of near Marion, entered the standing corn division, boosting to six the number of contestants. Previous entries were Earl Speece of Kirkpatrick, winner of last year's standing corn title, H. F. Hoge of Richland township, Cecil Murphy of Morral and M. V. Noel of near LaRue.

Walter Hord of near Marion and Donald Steen of Morral filed entries in the senior division of the shock-corn competition. Hord won the senior title in 1939, while Steen, who won the junior title last year has since moved into the senior classification.

Marion county's 1940 contests will be held Oct. 17 at the Earl [illegible] farm northwest of Agosta.

TRAIN DUE TO ARRIVE HERE AT 11:20 A. M.

Talk To Be Given from Coach Platform at Campbell St. Crossing.

One of the largest throngs in recent Marion history is expected here tomorrow when Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate, will make a brief address during a 20-minute train stop from 11:20 to 11:40 a. m.

With the official government weather forecasts of "fair and continued cool", party leaders here predicted Central Junior High school grounds will be packed with people from throughout central and northwestern Ohio. French Crow, county party chairman, said that with good weather the Willkie crowd should set a record for recent years in Marion.

Location for Speech

The special train carrying Willkie and other party leaders will be halted so that the rear platform will be at the west side of Campbell street, with Willkie facing the Central grounds for his talk. A public address system, carried on the train, will be used so that all within a radius of several hundred feet will be able to hear easily.

Willkie will come in from Mansfield on the Erie lines and his train will be transferred to the Big Four lines here and head for Springfield, Dayton, Hamilton and Cincinnati, where he will speak tomorrow night.

To Start at Buffalo

The train will leave from Buf*falo, N. Y., early tomorrow*. The first speaking stop will be at Mansfield from 10 to 10:20 a. m. He will also speak at Springfield, Dayton and Hamilton.

Willkie will be introduced here by Eighth District Congressman Frederick C. Smith, who with other county and district leaders and newspaper men will meet the train at Mansfield and accompany it to Marion.

The list of persons going to Mansfield, published in last night's Star, was increased by two today. Additional names are Frank L. Stanley, Marion A. F. of L. union official, and W. P. Moloney, Marion attorney who is a personal friend of Mr. Willkie.

Providing music for the reception will be the band of Buckeye Aerie No. 337, F. O. Eagles, and possibly another.

Bricker, Burton Coming

In addition to Willkie's talk, the crowd will hear introductions of Governor Bricker and Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, candidate for U. S. senator, both of whom are accompanying Willkie on his second Ohio tour. Willkie cut across extreme northern Ohio only a few days ago on his swing into the east.

In addition to the thousands of unaffiliated people who will come to Marion from nearby communities, there will be well-formed delegations. Probably the largest of these will be a motor caravan of some 100 cars from Columbus under sponsorship of the War Veterans Republican club of Franklin county. Similar veterans' delegations are reported coming from Findlay, Marysville and Delaware.

School Plans Made

The public school administra*tion* has made arrangements to permit pupils who wish to hear Willkie to do so.

Central Junior High school pupils will be dismissed in time to get the building closed before the crowd gathers, Supt. E. E. Holt reported.

Harding High school, Thomas A. Edison and Vernon Heights Junior High school pupils who bring written requests from parents will be dismissed in time to get to the grounds.

In elementary buildings pupils whose parents call for them at the building will be dismissed. This precaution was taken as a safeguard for the younger children. It was not deemed advisable to permit the children to join such a large crowd without their parents.

The matter of dismissals was decided on yesterday at a meeting of junior high and Harding High school principals with Mr. Holt at his home on South Vine street.

Traffic Setup

Every step has been taken to assure smooth flow of traffic and safety of pedestrians and the crowd, final arrangements for this phase of the program having been mapped at a meeting yesterday.

One phase of the plan is that all day tomorrow until 1 p. m. (or later if Willkie's talk is delayed) there will be no time limits on parking anywhere in the city.

This was announced by Safety-Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell, who reported the usual limits will be resumed at 1 p. m. [illegible] it is necessary to delay [illegible]

Steps taken by a civilian subject to selective service from the time he leaves home to register tomorrow until he becomes a soldier are pictured in the above chart prepared at Fifth Corps Area Headquarters, Fort Hayes, Columbus

All selective service trainees coming from Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana will follow these steps. They include:

1. Men report to their nearest registration board, October 16, complete registration and again return home.

2. Some time later—after first prospective trainees are selected by civilian boards—those called report to their local boards. They are placed in charge of a group leader and are taken to an induction center.

3. Upon arrival at the induction station—similar to a recruiting station—prospective trainees meet army personnel for the first time. Heretofore civilian personnel has been in charge exclusively but now the shift to army supervision begins.

4. The selectees are checked in at the induction station, given a standard army physical and mental examination Some prospects are rejected because of physical or mental disqualifications and are returned to civilian life Qualified selectees are sworn into military service for the first time, again are placed in charge of group leaders and sent to a permanent reception center.

5. At the permanent reception center, and hereafter until they complete training, the recruits are under control of army personnel. The selectees are checked in, housed, classified according to abilities, vaccinated and immunized against smallpox and typhoid, offered opportunity to take out government insurance and make allotments to dependents, clothed and equipped, and finally assigned to a unit of the army of the United States Then they are sent out to join their units.

6. Men who arrive at an induction center too late to accompany their group to the permanent reception center may be sent to a temporary reception center instead. Here they undergo the same processing as that followed at the permanent reception centers.

7. Upon reaching their regular tactical divisions or training units, the recruits begin their year's training as a soldier.

8 After original tactical divisions or training units are filled with their initial quotas, remaining recruits will be sent to replacement training centers. These men will join newly formed tactical units or will join the original divisions Others will be sent back to reception and induction centers to fill posts vacated there by the original army personnel.

9. Completing their year's service and needed no longer for an emergency, the selective service soldiers will be given a final physical examination and returned to their homes. For 10 years thereafter they will remain members ofthe Army of the U. S. Reserve. If they desire to remain in the active army longer they may enlist as one-year or three-year volunteers.

GERMANS TO RELAX CONTROL OVER POLES

Warsaw Soon To Get an Extra Hour at Night.

([illegible] Steinkopf, member of [illegible]ated Press staff, in [illegible] toured Warsaw and [illegible] surrounding states of [illegible] government of Po[illegible] the only non-German [illegible] permitted to make [illegible]spection of the German-[illegible] region.)

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF

WARSAW, Oct. 15—Early-to-bed Warsaw may soon be given an extra hour of night life because of "good behavior" under the German control.

Under the Nazi-imposed curfew, all Polish residents must be off the streets by 9 p. m. but authorities told me the deadline would be changed soon to 10 p. m. because political disturbances and general crime are diminishing under firm police control.

The later curfew is a German system of rewarding communities for the "loyalty" which all Poles are expected to manifest toward their new general government under German domination.

A medical officer whose duty is to sign death warrants said only one violent death of a German in Warsaw has been recorded since last May.

That was the case of a black shirt guard killed in a shooting affray with several Poles. German police reaction to the incident was said to have been "energetic."

After curfew lights still shine from the larger hotels reserved for exclusive use of Germans, mostly by German administrators. Some have brought their wives and even their children to Warsaw.

One German wife told me shopping is easier here than in Berlin, but she added she was a little worried about her children's "kultur"—she didn't want "Slavic modification of their pure Germanic mentalities."

German soldiers on night leave saunter through the streets. It seemed to me there was less mingling with the population than in Brussels or Namur. An occasional German soldier could be seen with a pretty Polish girl—but this is frowned upon officially.

German soldiers obey Polish traffic policemen and sit in cafes politely applauding Slavic music.

Stories by G. N. Hinds Are Latest in Ohioana Library's Marion List

"Squaw Trails," a series of stories written by George N. Hinds of 197 East Washington avenue, former member of The Star news staff who has devoted late years to writing of the early history of Marion county, are the latest Marion county additions to the Ohioana library at Columbus, according to a report by Miss Pansy K. Rauhauser of Linden place, county chairman and state secretary of the Ohio library organization.

Among the new books in the Marion county section is "Belinda Blue," a new children's book about a kitten, written by Mrs. Esther Wood Brady of Montclair, N. J., daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Wood of South State street. The book has won the praise of Mrs. Depew Head of Columbus, former Marion woman who is widely known as a book reviewer.

22 from County Listed

Twenty-two of the 29 known Marion county authors are now represented in the Ohioana library, Miss Rauhauser reported, following the recent annual meeting of the Ohioana Library society on the Ohio State university campus.

The late President Harding is one of the seven whose writings have not been compiled for the library. Eventually it is hoped that some of the original manuscripts of his addresses given as President, and copies of editorials which he wrote as editor of The Star, will be added to the Marion county section. However, a book, "Warren G. Harding, the Man," written by Joe Mitchell Chapple, is in the library.

The Marion county section now contains writings of N. Esta Arnold, Dr. Edwin Grant Conklin, Fred Keller Dix, Emerson David Fite, William Benjamin Fite, Miss Lucile Foreman, Miss Eleanor M. Freeland, the D. A. R. compilation of the 100-year history of Green Camp, Keith Henney, Edward Ellsworth Hipsher, Clyde Edgar Keeler, Mrs. H. K. Mouser, Ralph Parlette, Joseph Morris, John Henry Schaffner, Norman Mattoon Thomas, Jack Warwick, Miss Lucia May Wiant, Mrs. Brady and Nettie Howald Detwiler, in addition to the Marion centennial booklet.

The library, financed originally by Mrs. Myers Y. Cooper and named in her honor, is now maintained by sustaining memberships of $5 a year, and by patron dues of $1 a year. The Marion County Federation of Women's clubs is a sustaining member. Any one interested in becoming a patron or a sustaining member may contact Miss Rauhauser.

Ohio World War Regiment Gets In Shape for Service If Call Comes

Marion Men in Reserve Outfit Representing 23 Northwestern Counties of State.

The old 332nd Infantry Regiment of the 83rd Division, a reserve outfit composed of men of 23 northwestern Ohio counties, including Marion, has quietly laid plans during the last few months to enable it to function at a moment's notice.

The 332nd, which it is believed includes most of the reserve line officers of this area, has headquarters at Toledo, central point of the Toledo Military District of which Marion and nearby counties are a part.

High in the ranks of the reserve officers attached to the regiment are several men from near here. For example, the executive officer is Major R. H. Copeland of Waldo, who serves under the commanding officer, Lt. Col. C. O. Patterson of Findlay.

Of course, there are other reserve units in the district, but the 332nd is one of the most familiar to military men of Marion and nearby.

Preparing for Service

During recent months, the regiment has been organizing itself for any emergency, building up a so-called "chain of command" to function smoothly.

If the 332nd were ever called to active duty, it would be in a training capacity. At present there seems to be little likelihood that it will be called, since there are numerous younger officers coming up from colleges and other sources to handle the training of the nation's conscripted army.

Should an emergency arise where the nation had to train men by the millions instead of thousands, then the 332nd would be ready and also well-fitted for the job. Most of the officers have been keeping up on the latest military information for years and have had practical training in handling men in the field through the CMTC work in the Fifth Corps Area.

Some Assigned Elsewhere

However, it is possible the 332nd might not be kept intact should war come. Already the war department has called up some of the officers and assigned them to other units.

The 332nd is a World war outfit, formed at Camp Sherman on Aug. 30, 1917 as a unit of the 166th Infantry Brigade. It sailed for France on June 8, 1918 and was selected for service in Italy from July 25, 1918 to March 29, 1919.

One Marion officer, who was not with the regiment at the time, recalled yesterday that the outfit was "a morale builder" for the Italians who were weakening fast in the face of Austrian opposition.

"They'd march the outfit over the top of a hill and around and around until the Italians thought a whole division had arrived," the officer commented.

The general impression was one of vast power, which was what the Italians needed.

Although classed as a "circus" unit, the 332nd saw hard fighting in Italy.

In List of Officers

Among the present officers of the group are the following from nearby:

Headquarters Co.—Major Myles K. Stoltz of Marion; Capt. Eugene L. (Gene) Hill of Marion.

Service Co.—Second Lt. Marcus Elmas of Carey and Lauren A. Arn of Dunkirk.

Co. D—First Lt. Claude A. Albert of Kenton, platoon commander.

Co. F—Second Lt. James R. Crawmer of Marion, Second Lt. Robert F. Moran of Marion, Platoon commanders.

Co. G—First Lt. Emerson F. Hurley of Marion and Second Lt. Ivan T. O'Brien of Marion, platoon commanders.

Co. M—First Lt. Edwin S. Pilcher of Mt. Gilead, platoon commander.

TWO MARION STUDENTS WIN HONORS AT O. W. U.

Gegenheimer of 295 Franklin street, is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the English Writers' club and of Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism honorary. Miss Smith, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wendell L. Willkie was born in Elwood, Indiana, in 1892, one of six children. After attending the Elwood grade and high schools he worked his way through Indiana University. After graduation, he taught school for a year in Coffeyville, Kansas, where he coached the track team.

He then attended law school, graduated with honors, was admitted to the bar, and returned to Elwood to join his father in the practice of law. He enlisted on the day the United States declared war and shortly thereafter married Edith Wilk, an Elwood library employe. After service in France with the AEF he came home a captain.

Following the practice of law in Elwood, he began a law career in Akron, O., which finally led him to the executive capacity which he resigned to become the presidential candidate.

L. WILLKIE

Tomorrow, thousands of men and women, rich and poor, Democrats and Republicans —will join the people of Marion in cheering Wendell L. Willkie — the man America needs NOW!

A perusal of the brief life story on the left is convincing proof that Mr. Willkie was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth. He achieved his amazing success the way most Americans expect to—by hard work.

America needs this typical American in these trying times. As a capable business man, Mr. Willkie understands the crying needs of our country. As a genuine hard-working citizen Mr. Willkie appreciates the problems of labor. As the successful operator of five farms he knows the troubles of the farmer.

It is to this man that we take pride in issuing a rousing welcome.

The Will for Peace

HOPE THAT the Americas will remain an island of peace in a world at war finds its most secure foundation in the fact that America has a definite will for peace.

Every foreign war in which this country ever engaged found at least a part of the people aflame with the desire to fight and pressure was brought upon the government to act with arms long before the declaration of war.

In 1776 the colonies were convinced that only by arms could freedom be obtained. In 1812 the new republic, confident in its youth and strength, went enthusiastically to a war which might have lost the fruits of the revolution. In 1898 public clamor forced McKinley into a situation which brought the declaration of war from Spain. In 1917 there was great outcry for action from citizens and organized groups before Wilson declared that a state of war existed with Germany.

In all of these cases a positive will for war was expressed by a considerable number of the people long before hostilities began.

In 1940 the American will for peace is almost unanimous. War has become too horribly efficient to be entered into with any spirit of grand adventure.

This does not mean that American opinion is neutral. Except for the nationals of axis powers America wants England to win but there is no feeling in this country that America should become a belligerent.

War may eventually be forced upon this country but the will of America is for peace unless peace should become intolerable. Then and only then will be the people of this nation want to fight.

Our Schools—Our Defense

AMERICAN schools as a bulwark of American democracy will be the theme of the 20th annual observance of American Education week starting Nov. 10. At that time the nation's public schools will call attention of the people to the job they have been doing quietly but well to build and maintain the national defenses.

All the way from the little log schoolhouses of the pioneers to the big centralized schools of a streamlined educational age, the public school system of the country has been building to make America strong and it is now living up to its responsibility in the face of perplexing problems.

The schools of today are building directly for defense by training youths for places in essential defense work in industry and elsewhere but far more important is the job they are doing in building a strong feeling for democracy in the minds of the pupils.

Much of Hitler's power comes from the fact that he gets the German children at an early age and fills them with the doctrines of Nazilism. It is just as easy for the schools of the United States to fill the children of this country with the love for democracy and liberty.

There are no more loyal and liberty loving people in America than her school teachers and their work, day after day, in building the love for country and her institutions into the minds of young children is a defense contribution greater than anything statesmen and industrialists can provide.

Rolling Smoothly

AMERICAN railroads confounded their critics during the recent military training maneuvers by transporting 100,000 soldiers with full equipment in three days and thereby setting a new world record for mass transportation. As a test of one of the vital features of preparedness it was an impressive demonstration which pleased the army chiefs no end.

With the popularity of travel by automobile and bus, the public has paid little attention to the railroad as a means of passenger transportation but the army games proved that in an emergency it is well able to deliver efficient service.

Ability to transport men and munitions at high speed will be an important factor in modern warfare and it is one of the many comforting things in the American setup to know that the railroads are equal to their job.

Many small lines, no longer profitable, are still maintained in serviceable condition. If the need ever comes they will be vital to America, for in this mechanized age an army must roll swiftly, smoothly and far.

News Behind the News

Hitler's Trojan Horse in U. S. Connected to Official German Diplomats Here.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15—The seized correspondence of a German propagandist in New York has bared the trail of Hitler's Trojan horse in this country right back up to the doors of official diplomatic representatives. The evidence has been in the hands of this government for several weeks. It was dug up by the Dies committee agents, handed over to the state department and is now in the hands of the department of justice for action.

Expulsion of several of Hitler's highest representatives in this country is possible. The step has been held back because it might involve breaking the last taut line of strained diplomatic relations with Berlin.

Paul Mallon

The evidence lies in the confiscated files of Manfreid Zapp, the German organizer of a concern called "Trans - Ocean News Service." Mr. Zapp described himself in one of his letters as: "Not a political agent or propagandist or spy or whatever but a newspaper man who takes his profession seriously."

But he destroyed his own disguise in another letter bragging to a German government official of his accomplishments and saying:

"We, of course, have an entirely different conception of viewpoint and ethics than the American press representatives."

What kind of a newspaper man Mr. Zapp was is best shown by his books. He took in $8,600 and spent $140,000 in the 18-month period between January 1939 and July 1940.

Correspondence

Serious as his propaganda plantings in the United States and reports may have been, the grave diplomatic aspects of his case lie in his correspondence with certain diplomatic represenatives of the Hitler government in this country, representatives required by universal diplomatic custom to refrain from propaganda plotting.

The Zapp correspondence indicates he took some orders from German official authorities in this country. A note in his files dated August 1939 and signed with the name of a prominent German diplomat, read in part:

"It is of paramount importance that a crossing of wires with the DNB (German official news agency) in New York and Washington be absolutely avoided."

Another German diplomat wrote him March 27, 1940: "I should like to confirm the receipt of your report of March 11 concerning your last lecture tour and to express to you the heartiest thanks of the embassy for the fact that you have undertaken this enlightening activity with such signal success. I have not neglected to bring your most informative report to the attention of the foreign office."

Zapp even appealed to German diplomatic representatives for funds on one accosion. He wrote August 3, 1939, a letter addressed to a German diplomatic office, but not to a particular person:

"The supply of foreign exchange has during this month once again broken down, and I am in very greatest need. I should like to describe our distress more precisely:

"On Monday, July 31, I was due to pay———(A radio news agency) for the current week $504.42 as well as monthly charges $279.49."

Again on August 4, Zapp acknowledged receipt of some funds from an official quarter: "Thanks for your remittal of August 1 for postal charges of last month."

Other German diplomatic officers are shown in the correspondence as remitting minor funds for the German news service which Zapp circulated.

Zapp's Background

Zapp's story is that he came to this country in October 1938 to start his German news service as an offset to the Allied propaganda in this country. He erected all the well known facades of a legitimate organization, has employed 14 or 15 persons in his office, operating a teletype machine between Washington and New York. He took pains with his work. The owner of his concern, he has told government agents, is not the German government but private banks in Berlin. Most of his money seems to have come from a Berlin office called "Trans-Ocean News Service", which further screened the official nature of his sponsors. But he negligently permitted the screen to wear woefully thin in spots. He addressed a letter to "Supreme Government Councilor George Mayer" at Weisbaden, Germany, March 19, 1940, in which he boldly told of his journalistic and lecturing efforts . . . "Trans-Ocean has become a symbol for the American press . . . I believe that I am on the right spot here . . . Only yesterday I

The Vichy "Cure"

Members of Government "Tone Up" Their Systems.

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
Associated Press Correspondent

VICHY — Along with members of the French government, installed in this temporary capital of "Free France," and many refugees, I am taking the Vichy "cure."

Faithfully each day I drink the prescribed potions of the warmish spring waters—famed for renovating one's interior decorations.

Faithfully each morning and evening I walk the prescribed exercise route (marked by red, blue and yellow signs) through Vichy's parks and along the Allier river.

Pierre Laval, active head of the French government, is a fellow water-drinker.

Mr. Laval somehow manages to secure gasoline and ride around in a limousine. I never see him on exercise jaunts.

His Prescription

My doctor prescribed a diet and a "cure" consisting of drinking 50 grams of water from the Source Grand Grille at 10 and 11 each morning, and 50 grams from the Source de l'Hospital at 5 and 6 each evening.

The diet prescribed no butter, fried foods, fresh bread, fruits containing seeds and several other items.

Butter, vegetable and animal oils are among the foodstuffs that are almost impossible to buy anyway. My diet is so like France's "armistice diet" that its observance is easy.

In France wine is as much of a man's daily meals as any other item, so no intelligent doctor would deny a man the right to drink wine, even when taking the "cure."

The doctors recognize, however, that there is a difference in wines. My doctor informed me I could drink Bordeaux red, but no other wine. Bordeaux red, he explained, contains much less acid than France's other wines and so is better for the liver.

An Old French Custom

French and other Europeans have been taking the "cure" at Vichy since the medicinal qualities of the springs were first discovered by the Romans.

When Marshal Petain moved France's emergency government to Vichy the tradition was continued. Members of the government took advantage of the opportunity to tone up their systems.

Many who wanted to know what was happening discovered it was time for their "cure" and flocked here from all over France. More thousands of refugees came from regions in northern France occupied by the German army.

Nearly all the springs are owned by the state. Drinks are free. The springs have women attendants who rapidly fill glasses with the warmish water and pass them up to the railing.

It's the custom to exclaim "Merci, Madam!" when you get your glass and then drop a 5-centime piece or a franc (2.2 cents) in a container prominently placed for your convenience.

The favorite sources are so crowded just before lunch and just before dinner that you have an idea you're back in the United States again trying to get a coke at a drugstore during the rush hour.

Vichy baths are an integral part of the "cure" and the luxurious state - owned - and - operated bathing establishments (first, second and third class) do a rushing business.

Hardly any of the small and second-class hotels have bathrooms, let alone rooms-with-bath, and their clients accordingly utilize the bathing establishments.

You Had to Swim

The bathing establishments were closed during the war, reopening only six weeks ago, and when the Petain government first moved to Vichy most of the population (and refugees) had to swim in the river, take sponge baths, or go without.

In the bathing establishments you can get practically any kind of bath ever invented, from a shower to a fancy, medicated "massage under water."

The fancy "massage under water" is well worth the price—79 cents.

You are stretched out on a white operating table with a windshield contrivance in front of your face. Over the table warm water suddenly spurts from an intricate arrangement of pipes, providing a needle shower effect at all points on the compass.

Two masseurs go to work.

As they finish one of the masseurs hauls you to the end of the now steamy cubicle and stands you against the wall, while the other points a fire-hose arrangement in your direction from a distance of 10 or 12 feet and turns on the water. He sweeps the stream of water up and down, while you fight for breath.

Then they get gentle, wrapping you in a bathrobe made of toweling, and half carry you to a private cubicle where a couch with fresh white sheets awaits. They wrap another towel around your neck, still another around your feet, and leave you to relax.

Today and Tomorrow

Country Urged To Avoid Unbridgeable Chasms Between Parties in Campaign.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IN ANOTHER three weeks the election will be over. Either Roosevelt and Wallace or Willkie and McNary will have been elected. The senate will remain Democratic in either event. The house will certainly be Democratic if Roosevelt wins and probably it will be Republican if Willkie wins.

Walter Lippmann

If Roosevelt wins, his task will be to come to an understanding with the Willkie Republicans and the disaffected Democrats. He will be able to do that only if he places the ablest among them in posts of responsibility, especially posts involving the relationship between government and business, and if he gives the national defense priority over all commitments and considerations.

If Willkie wins, his first task will be to make clear to the country and to the world that in the interval between election and inauguration, the government of the United States will not be paralyzed by indecision and impotence. His second task will be to establish his leadership in and to organize the discipline of the Republican party. His third task will be to come to an understanding with the President and with the Democrats in congress and with the key men of the administration so that in the interval between election and inauguration and afterwards in the interval during which the new men he appoints are becoming acquainted with their duties, national affairs will continue to be carried on without delay or confusion.

Avoid Partisan Chasm

This being the situation which will confront the winner on the day after his election, I conceive it to be the part of wisdom, and indeed a public duty of the first order, for each of us to do what can be done to see that this campaign is conducted in such a fashion that no unbridgeable chasm is opened up between Mr. Willkie and Mr. Roosevelt, between the two party machines, and between the large masses of sincere and loyal citizens who prefer the one or the other. I realize very well that this is not a dramatic view of the election: it would be more exciting, no doubt, to become inflamed and explode with the cry that Mr. Roosevelt is conspiring to be a dictator or that Mr. Willkie will end by trying to appease the dictators.

But I consider that in the circumstances of this hour, the gravest hour in our lives, campaigning of that sort is like shouting "Fire!" in a crowded theater; even if some one thinks there is a fire, it is his duty to keep cool and collected and to remember that in human affairs a panic is far worse than a fire. For a fire can be put out. But a panic is an almost certain disaster.

In my view, the character of the campaign is more important than its results. A violently conducted campaign which divides the people and poisons their confidence in one another and in their leaders wins no votes for either side. But it will place an addtional heartbreaking burden upon the man who must bear the awful burdens of the next President of the United States. In the next year, in the next two, three and four years, the burdens of that office will be greater than any borne by any man who ever entered the White House, excepting only Washington who had to organize the nation and Lincoln who had to keep it united.

Immense Task

No one is equal to the task. In himself no one can be. Whoever is President, he must rise to the occasion, he must be made equal to it, and this is impossible unless he is certain of the loyalty and affection of a united people, unless there can be generated here something of that heroic unity with which the British people have amazed the world. It is the simple truth, I believe, that if free instiutions are to pass victoriously through their ordeal, each of us has to behave more magnanimously, and thus more nobly, than he is normally inclined to behave. The ordinary ripsnorting of a happy-go-lucky campaign is just not good enough at a time when the democratic system stands on the defensive, fighting for its existence.

To those who may think this is too rarified a view of practical politics I should reply that there is an older tradition than the party tradition. It is the tradition that descends from Washington, who in his deepest convictions, his practice—and his most fervent advice to his countrymen—represented the principle that men may, and in great times should, take their stand above the struggle of parties.

His trip through Indiana today was climaxed by a speech at night on the League of Nations issue at Indianapolis before an audience of 30,000. Enroute he gave brief talks at Jeffersonville, New Albany, Speeds, Scottsburg, Grothersville, Seymour, Columbus, Edinburg and Franklin.

OUR OLD MAN would have been gr interested in the campaign adve Mr. Wendell Willkie, especially the throwing and booing incidents. Our had experiences of a similar nature back in our old home town of Pueblo.

He was running for some minor offi populist ticket and one night he made in a hall in a section of the city know persauce Bottom. Not many voters a to hear him and toward the conclusio address there was a light scattering fire of missiles of various kinds, including tomatoes such as were pegged at Mr. Willkie, and a few mushy apples and soggy potatoes.

It was scarcely a concerted attack and not at all enthusiastic, because it seems the voters had expected another better known and more generally disliked speaker and had loaded up for him. They threw at our Old Man, not in a spirit of hatred, but rather perfunctorily. They had no other target and just did not want to carry their am away unexpended.

Old Old Man did not mind the vegetables because they did not hurt m they hit, and he would have made n the incident had not a scoundrel final with a defunct black cat that bounced Old Man's left ear. This really anno as he was most superstitious about bla

DAVEY FOR GOVERNOR DAVEY FOR GOVERNOR

FIGURES DON'T LIE, BUT...

Did You Know That Martin L. Davey Was Twice Nominated and Elected Governor, and, Was Nominated Overwhelmingly Again This Year?

YET No Newspaper Poll in Ohio Ever Showed Him a Winner.

Martin L. Davey

The poll now being conducted by the "Columbus Dispatch" is just as wrong as those preceding it You may judge by their past performance. Here is the record In 1934, when Davey was elected, the "Dispatch" poll showed him losing, and it was wrong by 124,268 votes.

The "Dispatch" poll in 1936 was so far wrong that it approached the scandalous It showed Davey receiving less than forty per cent of the vote for Governor. If their poll had been right in 1936, Bricker would have been elected by a majority of 606,719. But Davey was elected by a majority of 126,688.

THE DISPATCH POLL in 1936 was WRONG by 733,407 VOTES

It could not have been handled fairly and have been that far wrong

They and certain other newspapers, are up to the same unfair tactics again this year, trying to deceive and confuse the people. Make no mistake! Ohio is going Democratic by an overwhelming majority in 1940. Davey will be elected by the largest majority ever given a Governor in Ohio We predict that his majority will be more than a quarter of a million. This statement is based upon accurate information secured by a house-to-house canvass in thousands of precincts in Ohio

LISTEN TO MARTIN L. DAVEY ON THE RADIO

Hear his frank and forceful discussion of the issues. Davey's great record as Governor, during four of the most difficult years in Ohio's history, and his outstanding achievements for the people of Ohio, merit the overwhelming approval of Ohio's citizens.

VOTE FOR MARTIN L. DAVEY FOR GOVERNOR AT THE ELECTION, NOVEMBER 5. PUT HUMANITY AND INDEPENDENCE AND INTELLECTUAL HONESTY BACK IN THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

SALARY BASIS SET FOR WAGE-HOUR LAW

Pay of $200 a Month Exempts Certain Classes.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 — A $200 salary monthly has been set up by the wage-hour administration as one of the yardsticks in revised regulations governing the exemption of executive, administrative, professional, retail trade and outside sales employes from the hours restrictions of the labor standards law.

The new regulations mean, in effect, that persons who come within the official definition of certain of these classes need not be paid overtime for work in excess of 40 hours a week if they receive a salary of $200 or higher.

The revised rules, however, do not apply to persons earning $200 a month or more whose work does not come under these special classifications.

The rules are effective Oct. 24 when 40 hours becomes the standard work week for all workers covered by the wage-hour law. The present maximum work week is 42 hours without overtime pay. Officials were unable to estimate how many persons would be affected by the revised rules.

Most interstate commerce enterprises will be affected, officials said.

FEARS DRAFT, ENDS LIFE

HINES BEGINS TERM IN SING SING

Escorted by officers, James J. Hines (center), former Tammany district leader in New York City, entered Sing Sing prison to begin a four to eight year sentence after being convicted of protecting the Dutch Schultz policy racket. As the 63 year old once powerful political leader swung through the iron barred gate he philosophized: "Well, I came on a nice, bright day, if that means anything."

Council Against More Meters Now

Snare before the regular meeting.

As the police committee's recommendation, in the form of a resolution, was read, Councilman Harry D. Cahill expressed opposition to more meters "at this time"—until the present ones are paid for.

Councilman George Primm said he was under the impression council had agreed last month to hold off for a while and Councilman W. A. Dorsey expressed a similar understanding.

Mr. Primm also questioned the contention of Mayor Snare that the "100 meters more or less" clause, in the original ordinance authorizing purchase of meters for Marion, still holds good. The mayor and some other officials were under the impression this clause would permit buying of more meters without authorization of council.

Mr. Cahill said he thought that it was effective just for the original transaction. Councilman Earle Johnson declared it appeared to him that the "100 more or less" covered only the transaction in which the 103 meters were purchased.

He also commented that he believes additional meters would "put a nasty taste in the public's mouth" and that all the opposition to meters is not gone yet.

"It's too short a time since the first ones were installed," he said.

Mayor Snare said he believes the majority of the people would like additional meters.

After the expressions of opposition, the mayor said that the decision on installation of more meters is up to council.

Other sections of the police committee's report were read and filed. They included:

"There has been considerable complaint regarding double parking in the business district and the committee feels that this practice can only be broken up if every violator is given a ticket and made to pay a fine."

In another part the committee recommended the licensing of bicyclists, charging them a "nominal fee."

This was recommended in view of "numerous auto-bicycle accidents in our city, some of them fatal."

Licensing would give police an opportunity to trace reckless riders and bring them into court just as other traffic violators, the committee reported.

Tax Note Action

The authorization for the city solicitor to draw up legislation for issuance of delinquent tax notes was made at the suggestion of the mayor. He reported that the state tax commission has authorized the city to issue about $40,000 worth of delinquent tax securities.

The city sinking fund trustees are likely to buy the notes, thus saving interest charges, he said.

The city auditor will be able to pay off old relief bills Nov. 1 or soon thereafter, according to present plans.

The city has been going deeper and deeper into the red on its relief bills for several months. On Oct. 1 the deficit stood at $18,019.44.

Before council went into its regular session, the mayor also referred to council a letter from the American Express Co. asking for a parking zone in front of its South State street office.

Councilman Hayse Rogers also asked for a light at the southeast corner of the parking lot, which is "as dark as Egypt."

The mayor also asked council to consider taking steps to regulate use of sound truck equipment on the city streets.

New Post Voted

First business at the regular session was passage of the legisislation creating the position of assistant superintendent at City hospital. Mayor Snare explained that Miss Hester Nye has been handling the duties of the position for some time without the title or pay. The legislation last night clarifies her title as assistant superintendent and sets her salary at $125 a month. She formerly held the title of nurse and drew a smaller salary.

Some of the financial legislation came after City Auditor Elmer Shaw certified an additional $10,000 to the hospital fund and $7,000 in one of the gasoline tax funds for 1940.

One ordinance transferred $12,012 from the general fund to the hospital fund; appropriated $5,000 from the gas tax fund; transferred $25 from the general fund to the city treasurer for printing and supplies; transferred $1,200 from firemen's payroll ($500 to fuel and light and $700 to the general fund); appropriated $175 from the general fund to the health fund.

Another ordinance transferred $1,700 from materials to equipment and repairs in the motor vehicle license fund and $100 from materials to miscellaneous.

Most of the various fund shiftings were made as a result of depletion of some of the funds as the year nears an end.

Reports of the police department, relief department and of the analysis of water hardness were accepted.

Councilman Welcome P. Cass Jr. asked if there were some way in which council could find out how many of the 1,100 or so motorists who received traffic tickets in the last month actually paid penalties.

Rates Accepted

A communication was read from the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. accepting the four-year rate ordinance passed Sept. 12 by council. The ordinance became effective last Saturday.

Councilman Dorsey of the street and alley committee reported on several matters. The committee, he said, recommends curbs and gutters on Latourette street between Bennett and Jackson and on Darius street from Uncapher to Davids. These were referred to the ordinance and franchise committee for legislation.

He also reported complaints of alley conditions near South Seffner street and Fies avenue had been attended to.

A complaint of Herman Haas of 873 Davids street concerning conditions of the sidewalk in front of his home was referred to Safety-Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell for investigation.

Councilman M. Basil Williams reported Mr. Caldwell had informed him that dust conditions on Darius and Latourette streets would be corrected shortly.

Mr. Cahill, who served as president in the absence of Council President Robert H. Stief, directed the ordinance and franchise committee to draft legislation for a traffic light at Davids and Columbia streets and for limiting parking in that vicinity.

A request from Councilman Williams for information on the status of the city's proceedings against the Eastman Trucking Co. of Henry street was referred to the clerk.

Tribute to Miss McCarthy

Councilman Don R. Biggert made a motion, which was passed unanimously, that council go on record as recognizing the "very fine effort" of Miss Lillian McCarthy in starting the campaign which recently resulted in ordering two "iron lungs" for the hospital. He described her accomplishment as "very humanitarian" and worded his motion to the effect that she be recognized as "one of the outstanding citizens of the city."

of the

United States

Wendell L. Willkie

Welcome To Marion

November 5th, 1940, will not be just another day to select a president of these United States. Far more will be at stake.

The American people on that date must decide whether they want peace or war, liberty or regimentation, jobs or continued unemployment, Americanism or totalitarianism.

I have abiding faith in the American people and believe that on November 5 they will NOT break the one hundred and fifty year old tradition of "no third term."

INSTEAD, THEY WILL VOTE AMERICAN and elect as their President of the United States — WENDELL L. WILLKIE!

CONGRESSMAN FREDERICK C. SMITH

Paid Advertisement.

What Wendell L. Willkie Means to You As An American Citizen...

We owe our freedom and civil liberty to the principles embodied in the Constitution of the United States. One of its primary objectives was to establish a system of checks and balances designed to prevent too much power from falling into the hands of the executive, judicial or legislative branches of the government.

As an American citizen your conception of the ideal government must necessarily be the same as the type of government outlined in the constitution. WENDELL WILLKIE MOST EMPHATICALLY TYPIFIES THE MAN WHO BEST REPRESENTS OUR TRADITIONAL FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

A vote for Willkie will be a vote to revitalize our system of checks and balances. A vote for Willkie will be a vote to guarantee continuance of our freedom and civil liberty.

The Hope of Our Country

As an American workingman you are endowed with the spirit and desire to do the work you like, and through such gainful occupation to enjoy the high standard of living to which you as an American have become accustomed.

It is the sincere desire of every American workingman to succeed in life through his own efforts and merits rather than through the temporary favors which may be shown him by a political party.

Because Wendell Willkie came up the "hard" way, earning each succeeding promotion through his own merits and efforts, he is better acquainted with the problems of the workingmen and their desire to achieve their fair share of the American way of living.

A vote for Willkie will be a vote for the benefit of the American workingman who believes in the American way of life.

Guarantee America's 150 Year Old Tradition of "No Third Term"

Our freedom and democratic way of life is bigger than any "indispensable" man. Never before, even during the most critical periods, was it found necessary to deviate from our "no-third-term" principles In the face of totalitarian dictatorships it is imperative that we do not break the precedent set by the founders of our democracy. A vote for Willkie is a guarantee of American traditions.

We Sincerely

WELCOME

WENDELL L

WILLKIE

The "R" Months

"Oysters in their way," said Stephen Paget, "are quite as wonderful as poets, saints and men of science.

The season of the year has come again when, according to proverbial hygiene, it is safe to eat oysters—we are at the beginning of the month with "r" in them. The prohibition is old-fashioned—most oysters today are grown in cultivated beds, the waters of which are federal inspected. So the danger of contamination that used to apply to warm months no longer holds. But the spawing season interferes with their edibility in midsummer.

Good Food

The modern scientific dietitian supports in every respect the epicure's delight in oysters. The composition of oysters is:

Water	83.1
Protein	6.1
Fat	1.2
Carbohydrates	3.0
Salts	1.6

The carbohydrates come from the liver, the dark mass in the center. The high carbohydrate content must be reckoned with for diabetics.

The oyster is very easily digested if taken raw. Three medium sized oysters are disposed of by the stomach in 1¾ hours. Cooking makes them less digestible.

Their nutritive value is not high. Fourteen oysters have not quite as much nourishment as one egg, 225 equal a pound of beef. So it is not surprising to hear of enormous quantities of oysters being eaten at one sitting. Brillat Savarin relates of his acquaintance with a man who would eat a gross and then follow up with a heavy dinner.

The oyster is an expensive form of nutriment. A day's ration of protein from oysters would cost about seven dollars.

When the smoke cleared away we were

OPEN FOR BUSINESS

as usual

At the first wisp of smoke in Saturday's unfortunate fire, we began packing our coats and dresses, loaded them on vans and took them blocks away from the smoke and fire. You see, most of our styles and fashions are irreplaceable and we couldn't afford to take a chance. Today—we are open for business as usual.

In Saturday's rush we had no opportunity to thank the people who helped us move. We are very grateful.

This Medicine "Vendol" Was Big Help Says Ohio Man

Prominent Bucyrus Citizen tells how it relieved upset stomach, gas, sourness, shortness of breath, and other troubles due to constipation.

MR. JACK BRADY

Last week the famous medicine Vendol was introduced in Marion, new here, but already widely used in many nearby Ohio cities, under the personal direction of a trained specialist from the Vendol Company in Baltimore, Maryland, who has headquarters at Eckerd's Cut Rate Drug Co. Many citizens, both local and from neighboring towns, have now tried this remarkable Root, Herb, and Alkaline compound and have received astonishing benefits from it.

"I had suffered for years from constipation which caused distressing troubles in my stomach," says Mr. Jack Brady, living at 847 Faustina Ave., Bucyrus, Ohio. "My food turned sour, and the gas was so bad it caused shortness of breath, palpitation, and even kept me from sleeping sometimes.

"Also, my kidneys were sluggish often causing pains across my back and almost every morning I'd awaken feeling stiff and my muscles felt tired instead of rested. Often the constipation made dizzy feelings rush over me, my tongue was coated, breath was bad, and I frequently suffered from headaches. These troubles came mostly from constipation because I was never active without taking medicine.

"After reading how Vendol had helped people suffering the same way, I got a bottle. It showed good results so I got more, and truly I've never had anything do so much good as Vendol has.

"My constipation was thoroughly relieved by Vendol and now I never feel dizzy any more, I eat hearty meals yet am never troubled with gas, sourness and bloating. Vendol is good medicine, so I am glad to recommend it and hope my friends here and in other cities will give it a trial if they suffer from troubles due to constipation, as I did."

Vendol is a medicine with a reputation for giving wonderful relief. It is made from extracts of 12 Roots and Herbs with Alkalines added for extra benefits, so if you suffer rom constipation which causes upset stomach, gas, acid risings, nervousness, dizzy feelings, spots before the eyes, and many other troubles due to constipation, give this famous medicine a trial and see for yourself what it will do.

Learn all the plain, truthful facts about Vendol, hear how it will help you. Come to Eckerd's Cut Rate Drug Co., ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I'll explain all about it. Give Vendol a chance to put you on the road to better health. All druggists sell it.—Adv.

Veritzen, Thoroughly Contrite, Seeks To Explain His Determined Attacks on Mary's Happiness

I CAUGHT my breath sharply as Lillian brought out into the open the question concerning Philip Veritzen's motive in the grueling ordeal through which he had compelled Mary to pass.

I knew, for she had said so openly, that she believed in giving him the benefit of the doubt because it was his custom to put his feminine stars to severe tests to determine their staying power against almost insuperable odds. That secretly, despite her genuine fondness for him, she had shared my doubts of his good faith in the version he had given us at the time of the rehearsal, was now revealed in this daring challenge she had flung at him, one which I knew she never would have made in his present state of mind if she had not believed that the mental compulsion to tell her the truth would be salutary for him, no matter what the answer, and —also—that the chances of obtaining a truthful version would be better at the present moment, than at any other time, past or future.

It was a long second before he answered her, and when at last he spoke, his voice was slow and heavy.

"I can not blame you," he said, "for attributing the worst possible motives to me, concerning this last ordeal of Mary's, which, I admit, I deliberately planned. But Lillian, in all our years of comradeship have you ever known me to lie to you about anything vital, especially when I gave you my word of honor concerning the matter?"

Word of Honor.

Lillian's eyes were suddenly friendly, even tender, and I knew that she already knew what he meant to say to her.

"No, Phil," she answered softly. "I always have been able to depend on your truth."

"Then," he said resolutely, "if I tell you now that since Mary's wedding day, I have made no plans to upset her marriage, to encompass a union of Noel and Olina, or to terminate Mary's career as a Veritzen star, will you believe me if I swear to you upon everything I consider holy that I am speaking the truth?"

Her reply was prompt.

"Yes, Phil, I believe you," she answered, and I found myself agreeing with her, even while my particular little personal devil whispered cynically that what Phil Veritzen considered holy had a big question mark before it.

"Thank you, my dear," he said simply. Then he turned to me.

"And you?" he asked.

"I share Lillian's opinion," I replied, unhesitatingly. "I believe you are speaking the truth."

He looked at me searchingly, and I knew he comprehended that while I did not doubt his word, there was a question still unanswered in my mind. After an interval that seemed interminable, he nodded, as if he had made up his mind to some course before undecided.

"I thank you for your confidence," he said with a formality which had been absent from his answer to Lillian. "And I think at this moment, before going on to the real reason for my asking your presence here, I ought to explain to you both that at the rehearsal or the conference which followed it, I gave you only part of my reasons for any apparently questionable acts on my part toward Mary since her marriage to Noel."

I caught my breath, was sure that Lillian's lungs were also functioning imperfectly for the moment.

A Wife Worthy of His Son.

"I not only have rigid ideas about the sacrifice of almost everything to the career of an actress," he said slowly, "but paradoxically I also believe that if my son's wife, in a final supreme test, would not put her husband above her career, she is unfitted to be his wife. And, taking another angle, I believe that a true wife should be able to crush all suspicion of her husband's apparently questionable actions, and keep her belief in him, no matter how damning the evidence against him.

"Because I believe that last tenet so strongly," he went on, "I began my testing of Mary as a suitable wife for Noel, when I first received tidings of the terrible plight of Queen Olga and her daughter, and laid my plans for their rescue."

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy ... it helps keep the skin soft and pliable ... thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin ... for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Mother's Friend

Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Just ask any druggist for Mother's Friend—the skin lubricant. Try it tonight.

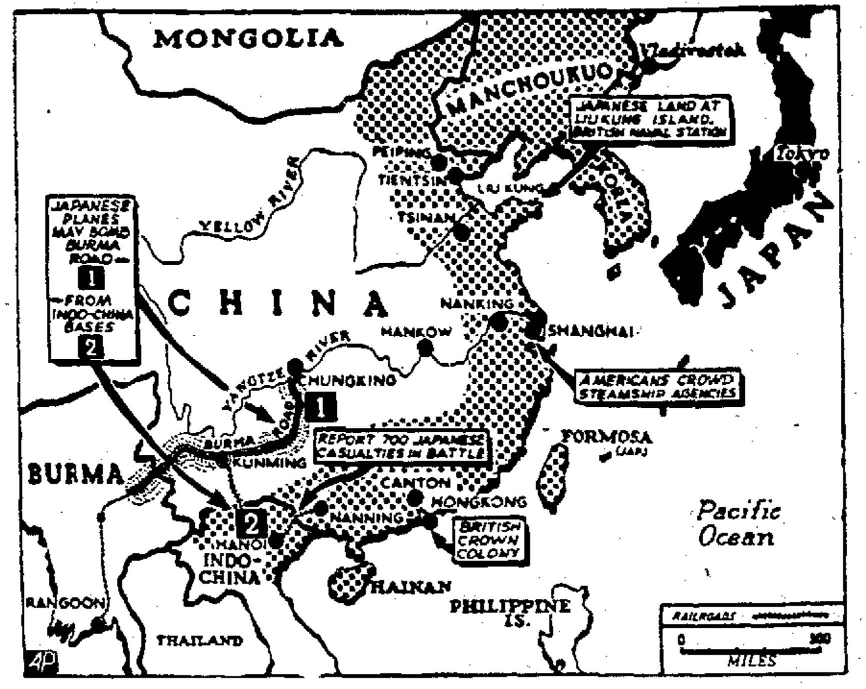
SOME OF THE HIGHSPOTS OF FAR EASTERN DEVELOPMENTS



While steamship agencies in Shanghai were crowded with Americans seeking passage home, Japan brushed another chip from the British shoulder by landing troops at Liu Kung island, British naval station. Tokyo newspapers said Japanese planes—which have new Indo-China bases—would close the strategic Burma road with bombs if Britain reopens it Oct. 17. Observers look for a critical situation in Honk Kong if the road is reopened. Chinese reported a bitter battle at Chennankwan pass on the Indo-China border, with 700 Japanese casualties. Area with checked shading is approximate zone of Japanese influence or occupation.

He further told of how he obtained a room next to state secretary Hull at the Pan American conference in Havanna. He said he was recognized by a Jewish acquaintance who reported him to the police and he was arrested and investigated, being ultimately released for lack of evidence.

Gap

Biggest gap in the screen is the fact that he is a member of the National Socialist party and received many letters addressed "Dear Party Comrade". He even paid special assessments for festivals and celebrations in the secret "foreign division of the National Socialist Party."

But perhaps the most striking illustration of the peculiar "ethics" he represented in government-sponsored German journalism, is disclosed in a report in which he claimed to have planted German news propaganda "without mentioning the source" in a French language newspaper in Canada. He contended he had arranged with the Canadian Fascist leader, Adrien Arcand, means by which his unidentified German news would be carried to the French of Quebec through "L'Illustration Nouvelle".

Letter

newsman with the Nazi ethics wrote a certain German consul:

"Dear Herr——:

"I should like to send you today through my secretary Frau —— a file and request you to lock this up in your safe.

"I would like to ask you that in case you burn your archives, you also burn this package.

O. S. U., Once a Rural College, Outgrows Dreams of Its Founders

(The Associated Press presents the first of a series of three stories on Ohio State university, the nation's fifth ranking university, which inaugurates its seventh president Oct. 25.)

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15—Ohio State university once was a cloistered precinct of learning in rural Ohio, 2½ miles from the state house.

"It was far enough removed from Columbus," a trustee said, that the "studious habits" of its 17 students "could not be interfered with by contact with city life."

That was in 1873 when a spring on the Neil farm, site of the university, provided the refreshing destination of a pleasant buggy ride for the 35,000 city dwellers.

If only the founders could see their infant reverse the situation in 1940, when a metropolis of 305,000 is turned topsy-turvy by the football games of the nation's fifth ranking university and its 18,000 students!

City Surrounds It

The university, which began classes Sept. 17, 1873, in a building costing $112,484, is now a $25,000,000 institution with 70 buildings spread over 1,200 acres of campus and farm.

Despite that, the campus which the founders wanted secluded from city life is now surrounded by Columbus.

will have solid judgment and good executive ability.

Peculiarly, this city was one of the last to apply for the university when it was conceived in 1862 after congress provided for land grant colleges.

Under the act Ohio received 30,000 acres of land for each of its 21 senators and representatives, a total of 630,000 acres. It was sold for $340,000 to provide funds for the new college.

Several colleges and communities offered buildings and land as a nucleus for the state university. They included Mt. Union college, Farmers college near Cincinnati, Miami university, the village of Kent, Worthington college, and Montgomery, Champaign and Clark counties.

Delayed by Disputes

Some members of the legislature sought to have the money divided among Miami and Ohio universities and Western Reserve college. The house of representatives voted to establish the university at London, but the senate tabled the bill.

After eight years' controversy a board of trustees was created in 1870, and one of them, Joseph Sullivant of Columbus, urged his townsfold to bid for the university.

Four counties made formal bids: Montgomery, Franklin, (Columbus), Champaign and Clark.

Although Montgomery offered to donate $400,000 in county bonds, the trustees accepted the Franklin offer of $300,000 in bonds and private subscriptions of $28,000.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Oct. 16

FAIRLY fortunate aspects are found in this day's astrological map, although it may take some discrimination, keen insight and a stabilizing force to turn affairs to the best advantage. Minor changes of place or plans may be contributory to this, but in any case there is need for prudent handling of funds and not too bold a plunge into unknown factors. Certain antagonism or want of support may be expected from superiors, employers or others.

Those whose birthday it is may be given the opportunity for progress through some unusual or singular situations requiring discrimination, sound judgment and executive ability as well as by a conservative use of financial assets, although the element of speculation and chance may be reckoned with advantageously. In some respects change of plans, methods or associates may prove beneficial, as the usual superiors, employers or others of influence may be antagonistic.

A child born on this day may have some exceptional talents, with progressive ideas and original ways of getting things done. It may be disposed to take bold chances and not miserly in the use of funds, thereby antagonizing its superiors. However, it

SEVEN PARALYSIS CASES REPORTED IN MORROW CO.

The latest case is that of John Chipps, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Chipps of east of Mt. Gilead. At Cardington where the first cases in the county were reported in September two homes were released from quarantine this week. One case in Cardington was fatal.

Business Begins To Show Trend Toward Expansion

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15—Progressive expansion is beginning to characterize American business activity, the Cleveland Trust Co. said today in its monthly business summary prepared by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president and economist who, since, has been called to active military duty in Washington.

"In August the operating revenues of class one railroads were higher than those of any previous August in the past nine years," the summary said. "The automobile industry is still increasing its output, and production has reached 100,000 cars a week.

"Nearly all the composite indexes of industrial production and of general business activity are now pushing into new high ground for the current movement. One of the reliable indicators of improving business conditions is to be found in the fact that employment is increasing."

The summary cited records of the national industrial conference board showing total employment of 47,518,000 workers in August, the largest figure since September, 1937. Total unemployment declined to 7,657,000 in August from 8,279,000 in Juy, bringing the idle-worker total to the lowest level since November 1937.

"It is still true," however," the bank's statement said, "that unemployment is still our most acute domestic problem, except rearmament. We still have two and one-half million more idle workers than we had in the best month of 1937 when they numbered only a few more than five million. The emergency labor force represented by the WPA and the CCC still includes more than two million."

Regarding living conditions, the bank forecast that the national income per family for 1940 will amouunt to about $2,228, or $460 less than it was in 1929.

"However, the summary added, "these figures fail to reflect one important part of the computations, for they do not tell what part of the average income was spent by the average family, and what part of it was spent by the government."

UNAWARE OF BROKEN LEG

By The United Press

DANVILLE, Ill. — A broken leg would stop most anyone, temporarily, but not Benjamin Dale, 57, of this city. After being struck by a car on his way to work and treated for facial lacerations, he didn't discover his fractured leg until an X-ray picture was taken when he returned from work that evening.

Axis Conduct Of War Reads Like Story Book Plot

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

There are times like the present when Europe's war seems like a very one-sided affair, with much of the spectacular initiative and drama radiating from the studiedly dynamic Berlin-Rome axis.

We see it now in the fiery Balkans, with dictators Hitler and Mussolini plotting the destruction of the British empire in a storybook setting of armed might and intrigue out of the middle ages. It leaves John Bull very much out of the lime-light, as if he were sitting back waiting for his enemies to decide what they are going to do with him.

This is by way of being an illusion, however, for J. Bull is busy with a very definite program and is quite as energetic as his foes. The trouble is that what he is doing isn't theatrical—J. Bull isn't a very theatrical person, for that matter.

Follows Definite Line

When the war started Britain laid down a very definite line of strategy which it has followed persistently and upon which it is depending in the main for victory, and it is this:

England is banking on the strangulation of Germany in particular, and the axis in general, by means of her all-powerful naval blockade.

There will be other operations, but they will be supplemental. That blockade is the thing, and Britain is clinging to it grimly.

An essential complement of the blockade is, of course, the bombing of essential industries, supplies and communications. The blockade cuts off the supplies and the bombing destroys those already accumulated.

There was a dispatch out of England yesterday telling of royal air force bombers flying blind through snow and sub-zero weather to reach objectives deep within the reich. The Nazis also plastered London as it has never been bombed before — but the British thus far are in a position to replace supplies which have been destroyed, whereas this is increasingly difficult for Germany and Italy.

Hopes for Revolt

As part of this line of strategy Britain hopes to see a revolt among the German people against the Nazi rule. I know from investigation on the ground that even before the war began the Anglo-French allies had agents at work in Germany trying to win the people from Hitlerism.

The privation brought about by the blockade is calculated to create discontent. People the world over do a lot of thinking with their bellies.

SUPT. HOLT RETURNS TO OFFICE AFTER 2 WEEKS

Supt. E. E. Holt, ill for the last two weeks, was at his office in the administration building for a short time yesterday morning and expected to spend some time there again this afternoon.

Mr. Holt said this morning that he is "feeling fine." and probably will return to full time work next week. This week he is resting at his home at 550 South Vine street, taking care of administrative duties for the most part by telephone. Yesterday the principals of the three junior high schools and Harding High school met at his home to discuss school business, including the plan of dimissing pupils for the Willkie visit Wednesday.

He will remain here at least until Thursday, when congress may resume its sessions.

COL. MARX RELIEVED OF GUARD COMMAND

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15—The 37th division, Ohio national guard, mobilized today for a year's training as Adj. Gen. Gilson D. Light disclosed that Col. Emil F. Marx had been relieved of his command of the 148th infantry.

Colonel Marx, who served four years as Ohio adjutant general, during the administration of former Gov. Martin L. Davey, lost the recognition of the war department, Gen. Light said he was informed by Maj. Gen. Campbell B. Hodges, Fifth corps area commander.

The war department withdrew its recognition of Marx following an inquiry by a military board sitting at Fort Hayes, General Light said.

Army officers here refused to discuss the matter and Marx had "no comment" at present.

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, 37th division commander, named Lt. Col. Stuart Baxter of Toledo to replace Marx in command of the 148th infantry, a northwestern Ohio unit. Baxter executive secretary of the Citizen's Tax League of Ohio, was promoted to the rank of colonel.

Gov. John W. Bricker told the mobilized guardmen in a letter: "You have served Ohio faithfully. You will serve the federal government with credit and distinction to the state. * * * as you enter the federal service now the good wish of every man, woman and child in Ohio accompanies you."

BERLIN-MOSCOW

swer to a double-barreled night attack by RAF bombers over Berlin, which underwent two alarms with a reported toll of one killed, 12 wounded.

Nazi authorities said a number of dwellings and a hospital were damaged in the German capital, but that a furious concentration of anti-aircraft fire brought down three RAF raiders in flames "enroute to Berlin" and drove off others before they could reach the city.

Nazi Objectives Hit

The British air ministry said the RAF "effectively bombed" several "important military objectives" in Berlin and set great fires at the German-held port of Le Havre, on the French coast.

Other targets of the British bombing squadrons, the air ministry said, included oil depots at Stettin, Bohlen, Otha, Magdenburg and Meisburg; the big north German shipping port of Hamburg and railway lines and industrial areas.

Early this afternoon British long-range guns posted on the Dover coast opened fire, hurtling shells across the 22-mile-wide strait of Dover.

Nazis angrily charged that apartment houses were the principal targets of RAF raiders in Berlin, and they acknowledged that many Berlin residents were being removed from the bombed areas today—either because their homes had been destroyed or because of danger from unexploded bombs.

In southeast Europe—heralded scene of the next major operation —Britain was reported heavily strengthening her defense of Egypt.

filling station attendant of Fostoria.

The suspect allegedly pumped six bullets from a .22 caliber target revolver into the body of his mother yesterday morning as she read a Bible while seated in a chair at the Stockdale home. The gun, also used to wound the filling station attendant, was not found when the car was halted here and Stockdale arrested.

Fostoria patrolmen said the youth was a mental deficient, that he was particularly intelligent in certain school studies, and that he was known as a radio expert.

Local police credited the capture to efficiency of the police radio system. Their call, with description of the man and the car, came from Findlay about 3:30 p. m. and their vigil along U. S. 68, north of here, brought the capture.

POLICE SEEK CAUSE OF SHOOTING

By The Associated Press

FOSTORIA, O., Oct. 15—Police and county authorities sought today to learn the mental processes which they charge led Dalton F. Stockdale, 23, to shoot his mother to death.

Stockdale faced arraignment before Municipal Judge C. C. McKay, on a charge of first degree murder preferred by Police Chief John Walsh.

Walsh reported Stockdale's father, Frank J. Stockdale, told him his son had been acting queerly for weeks. Dalton was laid off his factory job three weeks ago and had been doing odd jobs of radio repairing.

Chief Walsh charged Dalton Stockdale shot his 50-year-old mother yesterday as she sat at her home reading a Bible. He fled in an automobile bearing a sign advertising his radio business.

The car appeared at a gasoline station shortly afterward and Milo Hengsteler, the attendant, was shot and wounded slightly in the neck by the driver when he asked payment of 19 cents for gasoline.

Stockdale was returned to Fostoria from Kenton last night. He declined to talk to anyone and would not even acknowledge his identity.

"will give them the opportunity they seek to fasten their grasp irrevocably upon this country."

Wilkie went to Syracuse for a major address on the third-term question after expressing concern in earlier talks at Schenectady and Amsterdam, N. Y., that President Roosevelt "by some extravagant or reckless statement" might "bring warfare to our shores. when it may mean destruction for thousands.

"Taking this country into war when it is inadequately prepared is worse than betrayal of the country," he said. "It is just taking men to slaughter and to murder."

Making his chief drive to increase the normally Republican majority in upstate New York, Willkie accused the Democratic national committee of conducting a "smear campaign" while the President was "making lofty statements about international affairs."

Realizes Responsibility

Willkie said he was fully cognizant of the seriousness of the international situation, but added that "our first duty is to keep lit the torch of liberty in this land so that it can be relit in other lands hereafter."

Willkie said that Washington, Jefferson and Jackson were among presidents who had opposed a third term and that the Democratic party on two occasions had adopted platform planks against a third term.

"This is among the deepest traditions of the Democratic party," he declared, "and the Democratic party would not be seeking to violate that principle had not the Democratic party been kidnaped by the New Deal."

When James A. Farley quit as national Democratic chairman, he said, "the New Deal dropped one of the most trustworthy pilots that ever guided the Democratic party ship."

Willkie, repeatedly asking "what makes him (Roosevelt) indispensable?" made these assertions:

"The New Deal candidate excels a lot of others in the art of spending money . . .

"The third-term candidate has succeeded in putting the United States at the bottom of the list in economic recovery . . .

"There has been an unparalleled increase in the number of government bureaus and bureaucrats under the third-term candidate . . .

"Under the third-term candidate, political preference has displaced civil service as the test of eligibility for government service . . .

"The third-term candidate is not disturbed that the right of the people to a free and unpolluted ballot has been imperiled.. Under the third-term candidate, men on WPA have been forced to contribute to New Deal campaign funds."

Declaring that Mr. Roosevelt "has taken into his own hands in eight brief years more power than any president of this nation ever had," Willkie asserted that the New Deal's pattern of dictatorship" constitutes "the last steps on the road to absolute power."

"These are the steps whereby the people of other countries have lost their freedom," he said. "This is the way democracy has been destroyed.

The board for Wards 4, 5 and 6 met yesterday afternoon at Hotel Harding but did not organize permanently and selected no office quarters. They will do this after the Columbus meeting. The other two boards have elected chairmen and secretaries and have selected the post office basement for their offices.

The Chamber of Commerce reported a majority of Marion's business places have made plans to let their men employes of draft age off long enough to register. Employes who live in the country are given extra time for lunch so that they can register. No general announcement has been received by the Chamber of Commerce from Marion's industries.

tion of the limits an hour or so, police will be notified.

This means that it will not be necessary to put nickels in the parking meters until 1 p. m. tomorrow and that one and two-hour zones are open.

Starting the first thing tomorrow morning parking will be banned on Center street between Orchard and Oak streets; on Campbell street and on Oak from Center north to the railroads.

Some Streets To Be Closed

After the crowd begins to assemble all vehicular traffic will be kept off of Oak and Campbell streets until the crowd is well dispersed.

Center street will be closed to vehicular traffic beginning at about 10:30 in the area of Central Junior High school and will be kept closed until the crowd is gone. All westbound through traffic on Center street will be stopped at Main street, sent south to Columbia, west to Park Boulevard and north to Center. Eastbound through traffic will follow the reverse route.

Center street will also be blocked off at side streets in the vicinity.

The Route 30-S markings will be erected by the state highway department, which is cooperating fully in the plans.

Parking Lot Plan

The city parking lot will be closed to parking until about 9:30 a. m. so that it will be available to out-of-town visitors. Marion people who usually park in the lot while working uptown are asked to cooperate for one day.

A young army of police officers will be on hand to handle the traffic and protect the crowd. The state highway patrol will furnish five men from this district and possibly six or eight from the state headquarters. The sheriff's office will furnish four plain-clothes men.

The entire city police force, night and day shifts, totaling 16 men, and Chief Marks will be on duty. The off-duty shift of 12 city firemen will also serve in uniform.

The Big Four railroad will supply several plain-clothes men, the Erie and Chesapeake & Ohio railroads some uniformed men and plain-clothes men.

Their duties will not only be in traffic control but in keeping the crowd away from the railroad tracks, keeping a sharp eye out for pickpockets and other thieves who usually are found in crowds.

The committee working on the policing plans includes French Crow, Walter D. Moore, Chief Marks, Fire Chief McFarland, Sheriff Fred F. Miller, and Mayor Snare.

Mr. Caldwell announced today that the city service department would close from 10:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. to give workers an opportunity to hear Willkie. The garbage, service director's and engineer's office will also close.

REPORT REDS AND JAPAN TO SIGN PACT SOON

LONDON, Oct. 15 — A far-eastern non-aggression pact between Japan and Soviet Russia may be signed within the next few days, diplomatic sources here reported today.

Japan, they said, would be given a relatively free hand in China and Russia would receive a special sphere of influence along the north China border.

Rumors also are current among diplomats here that Germany is offering Russia a special sphere of influence around the Dardanelles—a freeze-out, according to these accounts, against Turkey, now the guardian of those eastern Mediterranean straits.

New Company's Plans

F. S. McNeal, president of the Universal Cooler Corporation, briefly summarized his company's plans for starting operations here and said the preliminary task of recruiting workers needed is now under way. Between 300 and 400 additional employes must be enrolled before the plant can get into full production, he said. Among these will be skilled mechanics, some of whom are not available in Marion and consequently must be hired elsewhere. Mr. McNeal voiced appreciation for the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce and other Marion groups in helping the company in its transfer from Detroit to Marion.

Mr. McNeal introduced to the audience E. A. Langwish, secretary and treasurer of the Universal Corp., William Devlin, plant manager, Eldred Evans, chief inspector, J. P. Denison, purchasing agent, R. G. James, personnel director, and H. L. Morrison, service manager. Other officials, he said, will be in Marion not later than Oct. 25.

Others introduced by Chairman Grigsby were J. E. Oliphant, president of the Marion Community Foundation, organization heading the community fund, George E. Planck, president of Rotary, Cutler McGrew, president of Kiwanis, W. G. McPeck, president of the Cooperative club, and James Lytle, president of the Lions club.

Mr. Oliphant in turn presented F. K. Zoll, employed to head the annual community fund drive, scheduled during the latter part of this month. Mr. Zoll requested the support of all local organizations for the campaign and said with such support its success would be assured. The slogan, he announced, will be "Good Neighbors Build America."

Grigsby spoke appreciation and praise for the work of A. J. Berry, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce industrial committee and Carl E. Danner, chairman of the campaign committee, the groups which directed the movement to bring the Universal Cooler Corporation to Marion. Both Mr. Berry and Mr. Danner were called to their feet for a round of applause.

A brief opening song program by the assembly was led by Don A. Howard, starting with the popular "God Bless America."

Dr. Smith's Talk

Dr. Charles Copeland Smith's address was a mixture of humor and logic which provided his audience with good entertainment as well as a convincing presentation of reasons for unloosening the chains and lifting the burdens which prevent business and industry from functioning at full efficiency.

His theme "Freedom," he said he would amplify by terming it "Our American Dynamic."

Declaring that we are "the children of freedom," and only in that respect are unique among the free nations. "While other nations had to fight, struggle and strive to lift themselves from the clutches of tyranny, this nation was conceived in liberty," he said.

Although the total American system is known to rest on three principles — freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of enterprise — Dr. Smith said, he voiced the conviction that "one leg" is more important than any. "All our freedom," he declared, "depends upon our great American freedom of enterprise."

Quoting from facts and figures compiled by the National Association of Manufacturers, he pictured what employment of 150 workers means to a community. Among other benefits, it results in the support of 1,000 persons, upkeep of 300 homes, support of 35 stores, thousands of dollars in business for the railroads, and provides a tax foundation of two and a half million dollars.

"That," Dr. Smith declared, "illustrates the story of America."

"The story of America," he defined as the exertion of free initiative expressed in free enterprise.

"All that we have and all we are has come to us in three short lifetimes. It has come through the adventure of going out and building industries in a free country. Government has not done it and never can. No administration in history has ever claimed credit for making America—until now."

Declaring that freedom is "under assault" here just as much as in any other nation — only through different means — Dr. Smith urged Americans to see the danger and remedy conditions.

To show that government spending is futile as a remedy for unemployment, he pointed to the fact that nine million were unemployed in 1932 and virtually the same number in 1939, despite billions of federal money turned loose.

"From Washington to Hoover the federal spending amounted to $144,000,000,000 and during the seven years since then two-thirds that total has been spent and yet it hasn't solved the problem."

The speaker quoted official figures on the tax burden. He said records reveal that corporations pay taxes averaging as high as $2,500, $3,500 and $4,500 for every employe. It is this burden, he said, which makes it difficult for industry to hire and pay workers.

"There is only one till and that is 'gross profits.' After the tax collector takes his out there's not much left for the things that industry should do."

Declaring, "We have come to a great testing time. God is calling, democracy is calling," Dr. Smith voiced the belief that the American people will revalue their freedom and take action toward regaining it in full measure.

LINDBERGH DECLARES U.S. LED TOWARD WAR

Says American Independence in Jeopardy.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15—Charging the responsibility to the country's "leaders," Col. Charles A. Lindbergh declared last night that the people of the United States "have been led to debt and weakness, and now we are being led toward war."

The noted aviator in a broadcast address said he was making a "plea for American independence" because it had never been more in jeopardy."

"The entire future of America and of our system of life hangs on the action we take and the judgment we show," he said. "It does not depend upon the outcome of the war in Europe, but upon men, regardless of their party, who will lead us to strength and peace, rather than to weakness and to war."

Lindbergh coupled this with the statement that leaders "must" be selected "whose promises we can trust, who know where they are taking us and who tells us where we are going."

In the prepared text of the address this was followed by the words:

"Our vote next month can either bring or avoid a disastrous war for our country. We can either throw the world into chaos or lead it to new heights of civilization. . . . upon the quality and wisdom of the leadership that we choose for our nation in November — upon our congress, upon our senate, and upon our president."

Lindberg omitted these lines, however, in delivering the speech, although otherwise he followed his prepared text closely. Neither President Roosevelt, Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, nor any other living American was mentioned by name.

The Mutual Broadcasting company, whose network carried the address, said Lindbergh had sought time to speak on national defense and that the request had been granted as a public service. The company announced that Col. William J. ("Wild Bill") Donovan would "reply" to Lindberg in a radio address tonight at 8:15 p. m.

Lindbergh said that while the nation required an "adequate defense," it did not require armaments running to the "astronomical" figures of present plans "unless we intend to wage war abroad."

WASHINGTON CHOSEN EPISCOPALIAN CAPITAL

A move to make Washington the national capital of the church by designating the national cathedral there as the seat of the presiding bishop was approved by the house of bishops. It also must pass the house of deputies.

Two other proposals were aimed at restricting individual clergymen. One would fix a definite retirement age while the other would prohibit marriage for two years after ordination.

The houses of bishops and deputies approved a change in the hymnal—a step not taken for 24 years. It will be several years before the hymnal would be ready for use.

Detachable stubs are to be filled out with the subscriber's name and address and sent with $1 remittances to Robert N. Heininger, assistant cashier of the Marion county bank who is treasurer of the organization. An addressed envelope is enclosed for returning the stubs and remittances to Mr. Heininger.

Pointing out that the Forum is supported solely by $1 subscriptions from members of the association, Mr. Ruzzo today urged all interested in the Forum movement to renew their memberships and to make an earnest effort to obtain at least two new $1 memberships.

He also pointed out that the association will continue its previous policy of admitting the public free at all Forum meetings and emphasized that the "memberships" are merely subscriptions for the Forum's support.

A goal of 500 members has been set this year to finance the five open-discussion meetings planned by the Forum association.

FORMER DETROIT MOB MEMBER SURRENDERS

Parole Violator Gives Self Up to Marion Police.

Declaring that "it's too tough dodging the law all the time," a former member of Detroit's notorious "purple gang" of the prohibition era surrendered to police here and today was awaiting return to Michigan as a parole violator.

The man, Edward Alois Blesski, 37, gave himself up to Police Captain E. C. Mackan Sunday noon and Blesski's statements that he was wanted in Michigan as a parole violator were confirmed in a radio message from the Michigan state police yesterday. Police said they understood Michigan officers are enroute to Marion to return him to the Michigan state penitentiary near Lansing.

According to Blesski's statements, he was paroled from the Michigan prison two years ago after serving two years of a two-to-ten year sentence for robbery. He then went to Buffalo, N. Y., for a short time and since then has been "drifting around," he said. He broke terms of the parole by not remaining in New York state, police said.

SCHOOL ASSEMBLY HELD IN THEATER

Harding Students Together First Time for Program.

Harding High school assembled yesterday morning in the Palace theater auditorium to hear an address by Dr. Charles Copeland Smith of Chicago, outstanding speaker and radio broadcaster, who was here yesterday as the principal speaker at a joint luncheon meeting of service clubs at Hotel Harding.

It was the first time in the history of the present high school building that all the student body has assembled since the building has no auditorium. Weekly assemblies are in fact two assemblies, the student body being divided between east and west study halls.

Principal O. H. P. Snyder said this morning he hoped to be able to have other meetings of the entire student body at the theater, when the prominence of the speaker or importance of the occasion warranted, but that he would await reaction of the students to the idea.

The cost of renting the auditorium is nominal, he said, and covers only the actual cost of heat, light and personnel.

Dr. Smith talked to the group yesterday morning on the opportunities for young people to work out worthwhile careers. He said the opportunities for success today are as great as ever and probably greater in fields in which the use of hands is involved. In this field he mentioned particularly the rapid strides being made in the use of plastics.

Cornell Leader In Opening Grid Poll

Big Red Rolls Up 1,396 Points in A. P. Vote; Texas Aggies Second, Michigan and Harmon Close Third.

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK Oct. 15—The Cornell football team, which has rolled up 79 points in its first two games, rolled up 1,396 points today to take first place in the first Associated Press gridiron ranking poll of the 1940 season.

The polished and powerful Ithacans, operating with 10 of last year's regulars and almost all of last year's reserves, drew 90 votes for No. 1 team out of a total of 156 ballots. That gave them a 381-point margin over Texas A. & M., the team which topped the final poll in 1939 and so far, with line-busting John Kimbrough working as well as ever, has won all its games.

Michigan Close

The Aggies, with 25 first-place nominations and 1,015 points, barely nosed out Michigan and Tommy Harmon, with 26 and 1,004. The next four teams also were given front rank on various ballots. Northwestern, upset conqueror of Ohio State, got only ten of these, but had sufficient supplementary support for 898 points and fourth place.

Fifth went to Tennessee, matched with Alabama in the game of the week, 7 first place votes and 772 points; sixth to Notre Dame, 5 and 753, and seventh to Minnesota, 2 and 630.

The first ten was completed by Boston College, so far unbeaten and untied in its second year under Frank Leahy, 440; Pennsylvania, which wrote a new, if unpleasant, chapter into Yale football history with that, 50-7 triumph last Saturday, 354; and Stanford, which under Clark Shaughnessy, in his first year away from Chicago, is the only all-winning Pacific Coast team, 267.

Of these leaders, only B. C. has an easy assignment Saturday, against Idaho.

Cornell's rating will rise or fall upon its showing against Syracuse, which snapped back to life against New York U., last week-end. Texas A. and M. plays Texas Christian in the Southwest Conference, where every game is a battle; Northwestern takes on Wisconsin and its fine fullback: George Paskvan; Tennessee, as mentioned, meets Alabama; Notre Dame faces always-stubborn Carnegie Tech; Minnesota must watch out for a boomerang in playing Ohio State; Penn goes against Princeton, beaten but not to be underestimated, and Stanford meets Washington State in a game that may be decisive in the Coast conference race.

HARDING SET FOR BUCYRUS; ST. MARY PREPARES FOR CAREY

Other Grid Features of Week Include Dedication of Upper Sandusky Lights.

Neighboring Crawford and Wyandot county grid teams will furnish opposition for Marion's scholastic squads this week. Harding High's team will visit Bucyrus and St. Mary will play host to Carey, both in Friday night encounters.

For the Presidents it will be the second North Central Ohio conference contest. They stopped Ashland, 12-6, in the inaugural loop game two weeks ago and on paper the Redmen of Coach Nick Wasylik look like less formidable foes than the A's.

Other important games will be on in this section. Upper Sandusky High Rams will dedicate a new lighting system by entertaining Marysville Friday night. The Rams ended on the short end of a 21-13 score at Tiffin Calvert last week.

One high school game is set for Thursday, taking Delaware Willis to the lair of the Kenton Wildcats. On the local scene the same afternoon the junior high schedule will move into its second round with Thomas A. Edison and Vernon Heights meeting at Harding stadium.

Other Friday contests in this district include the visit of Claridon's six-man team to Liberty-Union, LaRue at Forest, Ashley at Howard.

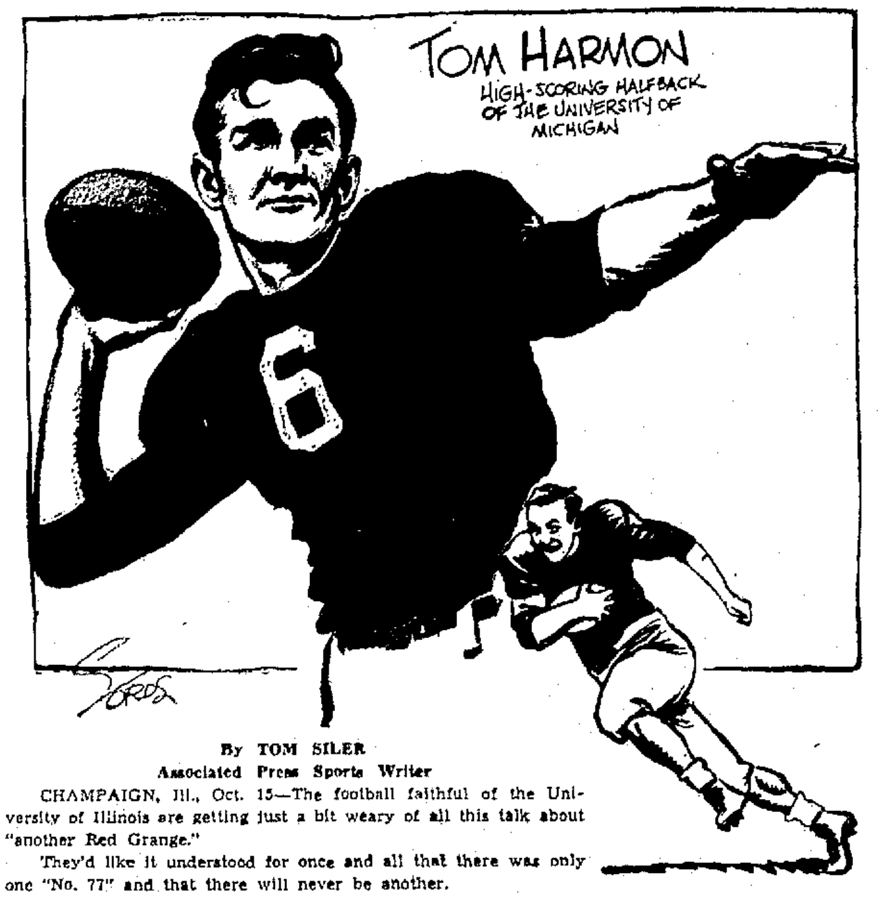
Illinois Fans Irked at Comparisons of Harmon with Immortal Red Grange



TOM HARMON
HIGH-SCORING HALFBACK OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

By TOM SILER
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 15—The football faithful of the University of Illinois are getting just a bit weary of all this talk about "another Red Grange."

They'd like it understood for once and all that there was only one "No. 77" and that there will never be another.

Michigan's swivel-hipped Tommy Harmon, who meets the Illini Saturday at Ann Arbor, is the latest to be tagged "another Grange" and the Illinois backers who saw the original gallop through weak and strong opposition 15 years ago don't like it a bit.

But the Illinois coaches doubtless are tickled to death by all these comparisons. An inspired Illinois eleven handed Michigan a stunning defeat last season, Bob Zuppke's boys smearing Harmon all over the field with a frenzied zeal. That was their answer to the comparisons to their immortal grid hero.

The inspiration for that brilliant afternoon's work came from the sports writers, Doug Mills, backfield coach under Zuppke recently revealed.

"The sports writers set up a better defense against Harmon and Michigan than we ever could have," Mills told a luncheon group in Chicago. "They kept writing that Harmon was going to avenge those field days Grange used to have at Michigan's expense.

"That was just like waving a red flag at a bull. Illinois people don't want any comparisons with Grange made at all. So the boys read the newspapers and that was about all they needed to do to be ready for Harmon and his mates."

Possibly it will be a different story this year, even though Illinois, rated off its two games already played, appears considerably stronger than in 1939.

Michigan naturally will be favored to win this one on its home grounds and Harmon himself figures to do much better than he did against the Illini last fall.

California, Michigan State and Harvard gave up 10 touchdowns to this driving, slashing power runner. If he sticks anywhere near this pace Saturday it will again take all the defensive finesse and zeal the Illini can muster to halter him.

Ohio's High School Gridders Show Class in Point-Making

Canton's Athie Garrison Leads Pack with 90 Points in 5 Games.

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15—The country's college coaches, ever on the hunt for touchdown-toters, should find Ohio's high school gridirons a happy hunting ground this season.

Among the thousands of kids carrying the mail for the Buckeye scholastic squads are several who can do it in special delivery style.

Topping the list of point-makers is Canton McKinley's scintillating Negro halfback, Athie Garrison, who has pounded across enemy goal lines 15 times in five games for 90 points. An injured knee held him to two touchdowns last week-end as the Bulldogs scampered to a 34 to 0 win over Warren, their fifth in a row.

Horace Gillom, Massillon's huge Negro end, All-Ohio first stringer in 1939, is close behind with 78 points, while Matthew Brown, Canton McKinley's left end has 60 points. Fred Blunt, Massillon fullback, and Willie Davis, Lorain's Negro quarterback, have 48 each.

1939 Mark Shaky

With the season only half gone, indications are that the 117 points with which Fremont's Bob Shaw led the Class A scorers last year will be bettered. Each of the top-notchers is on an undefeated team, Massillon, Canton McKinley and Lorain each having five straight for the year.

The Massillon club ran its string to 28 straight wins by beating Alliance, which had four in a row, before 33,000 fans in Akron's Rubber Bowl by a count of 40 to 0. That hiked the Tiger attendance to 100,000 for the year, and the Massillons are enlarging their stadium seating capacity to 21,000 for the Nov. 1 game with Toledo Waite and the Nov. 16 scrap with their old enemy, Canton McKinley.

The mighty Massillon crew has counted 285 points to none for the foe, while Lorain, in taking its 19th consecutive victory, 52 too, over Shaker Heights, ran its count to 219 to nothing for the opposition. Toledo Waite, winner of last year's Buckeye Bowl game, annexed its 16th in a row by trimming Knoxville, Tenn., 20 to 13.

Waite Tied

That gave Waite five straight for the present campaign, knotting the Toledo crew with Massillon, Canton McKinley, Lorain, East Liverpool, Newark, Dalton, Shelby, Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home, Cleveland Collinwood and Toledo Devilbiss.

Right behind with four consecutive wins, are Orrville (unbeaten last year), and Hillsboro, while McConnellsville has three straight. Other top teams include Bellefontaine and Washington Court House with one tie and four wins, Zanesville, Marietta, Portsmouth and Springfield, each beaten once in five attempts.

Among those falling for the first time last week-end were Alliance, Campbell Memorial (first loss in 15 games), Girard, Youngstown Boardman, Dayton Fairmont (first loss in 13 games), and Cleveland Shaw, the latter bowing 18-7 to unbeaten Cleveland Collinwood.

Individual Stars

Some sensational performances were registered by individual stars in the week-end frays. Bob Campbell, Wellsville's shifty halfback, turned in 59 and 85-yard touchdown jaunts against Toronto to win 18 to 0; Chuck Deshler of East Liverpool returned a punt 65 yards for a touchdown as New Philadelphia fell 34 to 0; Willie Carter, Akron South's colored half, ran a punt back 86 yards for the team's only score as it lost to Portsmouth 19 to 6; Ben Fleming, Sandusky back, had touchdown runs of 53, 29 and two yards to beat Mansfield 32 to 21; and Center Jack Franklin of Toledo Scott realized every lineman's dream of intercepting a pass and racing 85 yards for the touchdown that beat Toledo Libbey 6 to 0.

Ohio State has turned down a 1941 game with Fordham . . . U. of Miami (Fla.) has three brother acts going full force this year.

Pop Warner took over in 1924 and played Notre Dame next New Year's day . . . When Tiny Thornhill took charge he wound up his first year in Pasadena . . . (also the next two) . . . Arriving in Philly, Prof. Pond of Yale said, "We are here to give Penn a good scrap" . . . How about Bo Johnson, Alfred U.'s back, who scored on his own kick off! He booted the opening kick-off against Hofstra college, picked the ball out of the air on the Hofstra 20 after it had been fumbled, then raced to a touchdown untouched . . . We keep hearing a lot about a kid named Jack Taggart of the Wofford college (S. C.) team, who keeps pestering the opposition with air raids . . . Fog was so thick at Virginia, Minn., the other night they had to postpone a game between Junior college teams . . . Nuts to the weather man, we say.

Jules LaRance Stops Knutson in Anniversary Mat Contest

Hulking Jules LaRance, unpopular claimant to the junior heavyweight wrestling crown, stopped Gil Knutson in the all-Canadian featured scrap on last night's mat show which marked the tenth anniversary of sports promotions here by Markert & Lewis.

Knutson, after being tied up in a headlock and absorbing a barrage of right jabs to the face and temple, unloosed an attack that staggered his foe into the canvas. Gil used an arm stretch and muscle bounce. When LaRance sought the ropes Knutson brought him whirling in from outside the strands with a jolting body slam that ended the round in 15 minutes.

Women in Crowd

Easily half of the attendants were feminine customers taking advantage of the "women's night" and they roared their approval of Gil's first fall victory. The arena was a bedlam during the 11-minute second round. LaRance quickly maneuvered into a leg grip and used the strands to apply pressure. They slugged each other toe-to-toe Jules finally going for the ropes.

It was here that Knutson made his mistake. Again he attempted to pull his foe back into the ring but LaRance wrapped Gil's arm over the ropes, then leaped back in to get a hammerlock. That grip was the end of the match. He applied it with such fury that Gil not only was forced to concede the round but he was unable to return for the scheduled third fall. During the height of the excitement the tanglers, Referee Frank Greschel and particularly the mat were motiled with a soggy chocolate ice cream bar, thrown from close range by a spectator.

Lott Wins

Probably every bit as exciting was the co-featured battle matching Jimmy Lott of Birmingham, Ala., and Dick Trout of Los Angeles, Calif. Lott got the initial fall in 13 minutes with a jack-knife, Trout evened the score in 90 seconds with a slam and a shoulder press. The decid round went nine minutes. L Rance incurred the displeas of fans by coming to the rings to coach Lott, who already gotten into hot water with spe tators by his questionable ta tics. Five minutes of the fall Lott spent outside the ro and he was on his way to los when he halted Trout's flying grip half-way to completion a pinned the Californian.

Lefty Pacer of New York C and Ned Taylor of Camden, N. kept spectators entertained for full 20 minutes of their curta raiser. At the bell Pacer was ne being pinned with Taylor usi the ropes to hold his should against the canvas.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Dream Travel

THE [illegible] day the trek across the stony desert of bitter water began to continue day after day in [illegible] marches ever bearing west by south. The caravan started at dawn, plodded steadily through icy mists or rains or bitter winds with occasional days of spring mildness. Sometimes the camels grazed the sparse desert growth; at other times not a reed or a stem could be found, and the animals ate a double ration of dried peas and barley, while the horses drank limited amounts of water carried in goat skins.

Nothing of moment happened. There was no brush with brigands or unusual struggle against the elements. Lynn lived like a person in a dream, finding an all, passive pleasure in following the ever-receding horizon and in talking to Temu and Sherdock and Gersing during the morning and evening meals. She knew they would eventually pass into the mountain country where the Hoang-ho steamboats owned by white men plied the waters.

Leaving the bleakest part of the desert, they entered a rolling country of better grass where sheep replaced goats in the nomad flocks. They camped one night at a pleasant spot called Watch Tower Wells, at the edge of a wide plain where spring had touched the sod, bringing out the grass and flowers.

The next morning after breakfast the four travelers sat a while in the dining tent. Temu had interviewed a local nomad chieftain, as well as Chin Pak and Bula and the head camel-puller. Little Bamboo brought in the kitten which jumped from its basket and came forward mewing for attention like a child that has been left alone for a while. It arched its neck, half rising to meet Lynn's caressing hand.

"How it has grown," she remarked, lifting it to her lap as Temu watched her.

"That we see beings such as that kitten with our limited vision, is always evidence to me that there are other things we do not see," he said.

Sherdock put away his long-stemmed pipe. "Some people," he declared, "do not even see the spirits of the earth."

"I don't," said Lynn. "I'm not even convinced there are such things."

"You will be some day. Let Temu take you into the mountains back of Delun."

Her eyes twinkling, she turned to the younger man. "Will you take me if I should happen to go to Delun some day of my own free will?"

"What's this," he bantered. "Are you still believing that you can escape?"

"Luck won't be with you always."

"Oh, I don't know. You will love the mountains back of Delun. I am told there are gnomes and pixies in every glen."

"You are told? Haven't you seen them?"

"I lack the magic that opens a man's eyes," he answered gravely. "They tell me that if I would see the fairies, I must walk hand in hand with an incarnate goddess."

He might be mocking her, but the words and timbre of his voice stirred her pulses. He reached over and gave the kitten a stroke or two and then desisted.

"Its bones are too frail for me. I prefer a husky pet, something my hands won't crush." He picked up one of Lynn's firm, white hands. "Something like this — strong and splendid." He tipped her chin with a gentle, nudging fist and spoke to the Duchess.

"Gersing, see this Tara chin with a threat of a dimple in it."

Lynn thought it was an odd mood for him, for ordinarily, he was rather careful not to touch her. He jumped to his feet impatiently.

"Will we ever reach the end of this journey!" He stroke out of the tent, the three of them following him with their eyes.

Lynn turned in time to see Sherdock smiling to himself. "We have done well," he said. "Never before has a caravan of this size crossed the dessert with such speed."

"I've got to get away from them!" Lynn thought, in a sudden state of panic. "They're weaving a net around me."

She went out to Temu who was talking to Bula about a sick camel.

"May I go for a horseback ride?" she asked abruptly.

Dressed in Mongol trousers and a full-sleeved Mongol shirt of brightest blue beneath a fawn-skin vest, and with a gay, red beret on her head, she made a pretty picture for Mongol eyes.

He looked at her sharply for a moment. "Sorry. You're in the wrong frame of mind. I don't want to be bothered with having to follow and bring you back. Walk about the camp if you need exercise."

Lynn lashed out in a sudden flare of anger. "Bandit! Stealer of women! You'll pay for this!"

He usually laughed at her rages. This time they were both on edge and he answered her in kind. "I'm paying now if you only knew. I don't like this any better than you do." He turned again to Bula.

Lynn went straight up the hill back of the camp. It was the foot of a series of ridges that rose eventually to a divide and then sloped down to the Great Wall and the Yellow River.

"If only I could fly!" she cried aloud. She felt almost angry and desperate enough to flap her arms and try should she find a suitable cliff from which to take off. "Why," she asked herself, "why should fledging birds have powers that I do not?"

She went along the crest of the hill for a distance always keeping in sight of the camp. She neither wanted Temu Darin following her nor thinking her so stupid as to try to escape on foot. Finally, she stood still to view a distant snow-capped mountain that rising mists revealed beyond the western plain. It reminded her of her own Sierras at home; yet not, she noticed, with a feeling of longing and homesickness. That life seemed the dream now and this the reality. Her hand caressed the charm box at her throat. Surely, something bigger than any of the visible powers around her was leading her—but where?

Presently on her ears fell a sound that she took at first for the beat of drums. Then it changed to a slightly dissonant roar that soon became more regular.

"A motor!" she cried. "An automobile!" An instant later she spied the car in the canyon beyond the ridge on which she stood. She turned and looked back at the camp. The sound, she suspected, would not be heard from there. If only she could intercept the car as it toiled up the trackless gorge!

She began to run, waving her beret. The driver apparently saw her for he stopped the motor. She fairly coasted down a sandy slip to meet him. He had stepped out of the car, a tall man in khaki and a Stetson hat—a white man.

"I'm an American. Are you?" she demanded breathlessly.

He stared at her for a moment in unbelieving silence. "An American! And what on earth are you doing here?" His accent answered her question; he, too, was American.

"I was carried off by a band of natives," she explained. "They let me take a walk alone this morning and I saw you. Take me away quickly. Their camp is in the plain beyond this hill."

"Just a minute. I don't want to get in trouble with the local tent-dwellers. I must work this region all summer. What——"

"My captors aren't local people," she interrupted. "They're a caravan of heavily armed men from across the desert. If you would save me, we must go at once. They are ruthless; they will stop at nothing."

He turned decisively and opened the car door. "Jump in."

It was an ancient touring car with camp equipment in the tonneau. The engine started reluctantly. The driver backed to a spot where he could turn around and follow the road he had come. Lynn's last glimpse of the place from which she had first seen her rescuer revealed the fact that she had not yet been followed. She settled down in her seat.

"This is miraculous," she said. "I've thought of all kinds of schemes for escaping. And, here without any scheming at all, you come along and rescue me."

Her companion gave her a quick, sidelong glance. "I am Frederick Wallace, a plant hunter. I have headquarters and a wife in Lanfou on the Yellow River, where we will arrive some time before dark—if we don't break an axle," he stammered, as they bounded over an outcrop of rock in a narrow curve of the draw that soon widened eventually to the top of the divide.

His eyes, she noticed, had that look of innocence seen in the eyes of little babies or scholarly men. Such a characteristic seemed hardly compatible with his adventurous occupation. "Now tell me your story," he said.

Her story!

"I hardly know how to begin," Lynn faltered. She found in herself a strange loyalty and a strong reluctance to say anything that would harm Sherdock and Temu Darin, as if, in truth, they were her people as they claimed to be.

Too, the facts were so incredible! Perhaps not too incredible for Asia where anything can happen. But what was to be gained by the telling? If the story were believed, it would cause Temu more trouble than anybody else. The Prince, she surmised, would slip out of responsibility in some way.

She determined to say as little as she could, and that nothing she might say would later trouble Temu. She looked back as the car jolted along—they would follow her, of course. But could camels and horses overtake a motor car?

Youngest Ohioan in World War To Register for Draft

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 15—Adurum Oppenheimer wonders if he'll be the only World war veteran who has to register for selective service Wednesday.

"I'm going to try to be the first to register this time," said Oppenheimer who enlisted in the marines at the age of 13. He won't be 36, the registration age limit, until Nov. 24.

Oppenheimer, youngest Ohio American Legion member, first enlisted in the navy, saying he was "18, but small for my age." A telegram from his father, R. D. Oppenheimer of Paintsville, Ky., brought a cancellation. En route, he stopped in Cincinnati and joined the marines.

He became a first sergeant and served until Oct. 20, 1919.

Oppenheimer now operates a coal firm, is married and has four children. His father still lives in Paintsville.

"But I'm sure he won't send any telegrams this time when I register," he chuckled.

"In YOUR Opinion"

By NORMAN CHANDLER

Chairman, Newspaper Publishers Committee

NORMAN CHANDLER

YOU may or may not be worried about the size of the national debt.

You may favor or disapprove farm loans or pensions to aged stockbrokers.

You have a perfect right to your own opinion on any subject that affects this community or this nation. But, if your opinion is going to count, it must be based on knowledge.

If you told me you favored a law controlling traffic on Mars, I would question your right to that view—simply because we haven't any news reports on Mars.

You can interest me in the Polish refugee problem or in the November elections or the 1941 model cars. Those things have been duly reported by people you and I know to be trustworthy and accurate in what they report.

In fact it is your duty to have opinions—and to express them—on two important phases of life.

1. You must have opinions on the laws and the men and the policies of the government. We are a self-governing nation. If we don't [illegible] and help and control, we don't [illegible]

2. You must know the value of money and what it will buy. Few of us have so much money that we can fulfill our every whim. We have to pick and choose from all the things that are offered—so that we get the essentials of diet, health, comfort, security in full measure from our dollars.

Thus, unless you want to be the blind puppet of some dictator and as thoughtless of tomorrow as a Hottentot, you have to know what is going on around you. Which means, of course, that you must have newspapers—and good ones, at that.

Germany's newspapers or Russia's wouldn't help you much. Perhaps, by constant propaganda, they might teach you to forget your ideas of freedom and to forego your dignity and competence as an individual created in God's image.

Read, for instance, these few sentences from Adolph Hitler's "Mein Kampf":

> "Propaganda has always to be directed more and more towards the feeling, and only to a certain extent to so-called reason. All propaganda has to be popular and has to adapt its spiritual level to the perception of the least intelligent of those towards whom it intends to direct itself.
> "The masses, however, with their inertia, always need a certain time before they are ready even to notice a thing, and they will lend their memories only to the thousandfold repetition of the most simple ideas."

Now turn through the newspaper you are reading. Notice the news. See how carefully it is put together to give you a quick and accurate picture of what actually happened everywhere. Look at the respectful way the merchants and manufacturers ask for your patronage. Can you imagine an American advertiser commanding you or threatening you if you refused to like his wares?

Can you imagine your newspaper editor writing down to you, treating you like an animal, to be trained "by the thousandfold repetition of the most simple ideas"?

In your opinion, isn't your role as a free citizen, armed with accurate news and truthful facts about values, a rather desirable role?

It's your opinion that counts. If you and enough of your neighbors want some other system, you can have it. And if you like our present system, it's really up to you to preserve it!

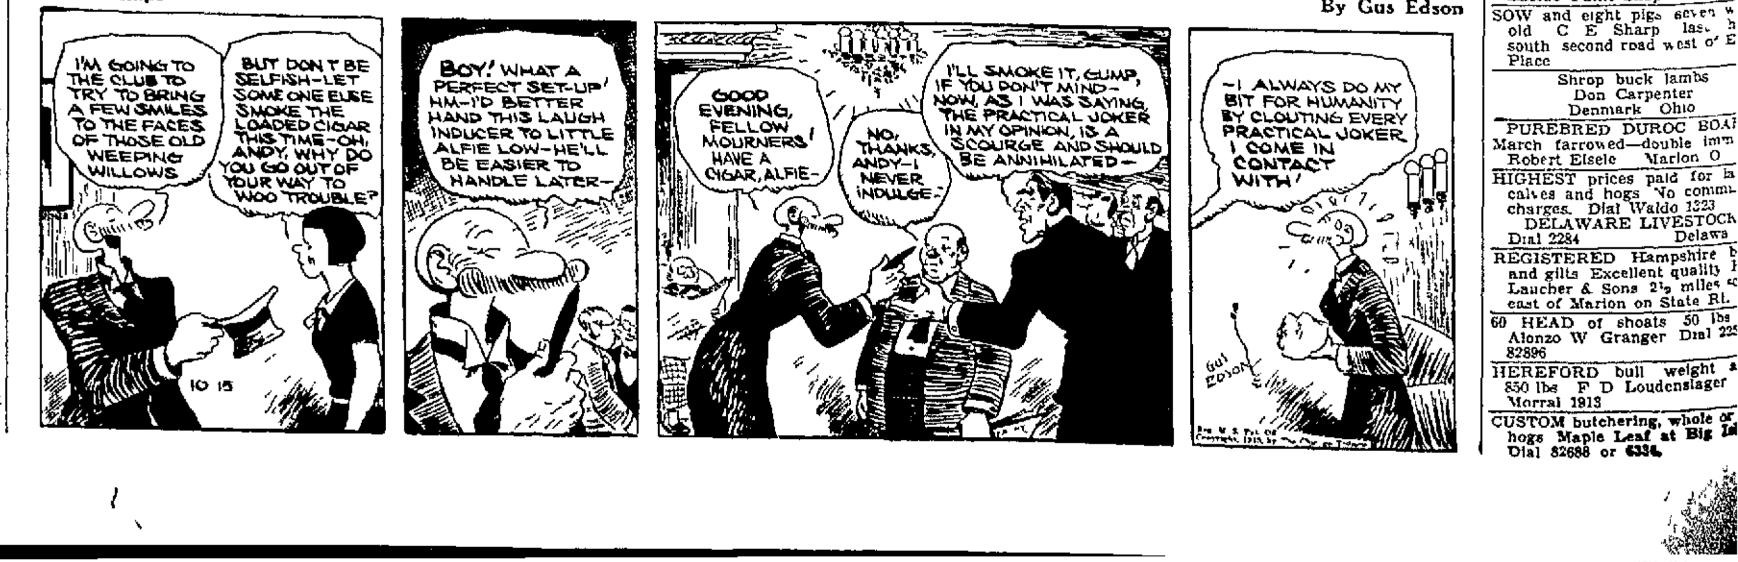
The Gumps

By Gus Edson



I'M GOING TO THE CLUB TO TRY TO BRING A FEW SMILES TO THE FACES OF THOSE OLD WEEPING WILLOWS
BUT DON'T BE SELFISH—LET SOME ONE ELSE SMOKE THE LOADED CIGAR THIS TIME—OH, HM—YOU GO OUT OF YOUR WAY TO WOO TROUBLE?
BOY! WHAT A PERFECT SET-UP! HM—I'D BETTER HAND THIS LAUGH INDUCER TO LITTLE ALFIE LOW—HE'LL BE EASIER TO HANDLE LATER—
GOOD EVENING, FELLOW MOURNERS! HAVE A CIGAR, ALFIE—
NO, THANKS, ANDY—I NEVER INDULGE—
I'LL SMOKE IT, GUMP, IF YOU DON'T MIND—NOW, AS I WAS SAYING, THE PRACTICAL JOKER IN MY OPINION, IS A SCOURGE AND SHOULD BE ANNIHILATED—
—I ALWAYS DO MY BIT FOR HUMANITY BY CLOUTING EVERY PRACTICAL JOKER I COME IN CONTACT WITH!

PRESIDENT WILL MAKE 2 POLITICAL SPEECHES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt would make two "outright political" speeches of a half hour each on Oct. 23 and Oct. 30.

Stephen T. Early, press secretary, said the Democratic national committee had arranged for both addresses and that they probably would be made from the White House.

The first, on Oct. 23, will be from 9:30 to 10 p. m. on the occasion of observance of national youth day.

The second will be from 10:30 to 11 p. m. Early said the subject of this address had not been selected. Both speeches will be broadcast nationally.

Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock the Chief Executive will make a seven-minute speech in connection with registration under the conscription act.

WHEAT PRICES SLIP AS BUYING FALLS OFF

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 15—A slackening of buyer interest, induced by an easier tone in securities and reports of increased offerings of actual wheat at Kansas City, permitted wheat prices to drift downward today.

Losses around midsession canceled most of yesterday's gains of ½-⅝ cent before a reaction set in. However, an initial advance had carried December wheat to 85 cents a bushel, the highest price since June. Near the close, the market rallied to within fractions of yesterday's finish. Other grains drifted with wheat.

Wheat closed ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher than yesterday's finish, Dec. 84⅝-⅝, May 83⅝-½, corn unchanged to ¼ off, Dec. 59½, May 60⅞, oats unchanged to ⅛ up, and lard unchanged to 7 cents higher.

SEES SERIOUS PROBLEM AHEAD FOR LUTHERANS

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 15 — The United Lutheran Church of America was told today that it faces a major problem in the next decade caused by almost complete stoppage of immigration and a generally declining birthrate in the nation.

Rev. Edward Traill Horn, III, pastor of the Lutheran university church at Cornell university, and a specialist in church statistics, declared that much of the church's growth in the United States and Canada was due to immigration.

He asserted the church "must address its message now to the 65,000,000 unchurched citizens of the nation."

The immigration problem, he added, had been peculiar to churches of the Lutheran faith, since it brought to this country different languages and religious practices despite common confessional foundations.

STOCKS STAGE FEEBLE RALLY

Majority of Leaders, However, Drag Along on Somewhat Lower Levels.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—A few specialties, including amusement company issues, wangled a feeble rally in today's stock market but the majority of leaders moped in slightly lower territory.

Traders saw nothing in the news picture to stir their speculative pulse. Home business prospects still were to the liking of bullish contingents.

Bonds and commodities were moderately irregular. The London market held to a steady course despite persistent Nazi air raids.

Stocks giving a fairly good account of themselves included Loew's, Paramount, Pathe, Dow Chemical, Texas Corp., North American Douglas Aircraft and Crucible Steel common and preferred.

Analysts blamed part of the recent market apathy on the fact many potential share purchasers realized that about $1,000,000,000 of British-owned American securities have yet to be liquidated.

VOLUNTEERS TO HELP ENFORCE DRAFT LAW

Everyone To Keep Eyes Open for Evaders.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 — Selective service officials are counting on a volunteer police force of millions throughout the land to make certain that every eligible man of 21 to 30 registers tomorrow in the nation's first peacetime conscription program.

For every young man who goes to an election precinct or school house to register, national selective service headquarters predicted today, there will be at least one relative, friend or employer keeping watch after Oct. 16 to see that no other man has evaded registration.

For that reason, officials here do not anticipate numerous attempts to evade registration or many prosecutions for draft-dodging.

They expect the mothers and sweethearts of America, if no one else, to maintain a strict neighborhood vigilance. Some tale-bearing letters already have come to national headquarters.

Throughout the country, the selective service system is organized to give the volunteer police every opportunity to detect evaders.

The 1,000,000-odd draft registrars who stand ready today to register the 16,404,000 young men of draft age are election officials, school teachers and volunteer workers familiar with the people of their communities.

Each of the 6,500 local boards which will be set up the morning after registration to classify the men for service also are composed of local men.
